RETIRING — Mrs. Mary May Yates, an employee of the Circleville City School system, retired Friday after 15 years of service to the schools. She worked in the Child Accounting office all 15 years of her employment. When asked if she had any certain plans for retirement, she stated, "No certain plans—I'm just going to retire and enjoy myself."

Fraudulent IDs Come Under Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is slowly grinding out legislation designed to crack down on drug smugglers, con artists and other crooks who use false identification papers to commit their crimes.

House and Senate judiciary committees are considering bills to make it a crime to use fraudulent information to obtain passports, Social Security cards and other federal identification papers.

It also would be a federal offense to use the mail or other interstate facilities to submit false information to state and local governments to get drivers' licenses or birth certificates. Justice Department and FBI officials say the legislation would be a potent new weapon to fight a broad range of crimes accomplished with the help of false identities.

A government advisory committee recommended such legislation last year. But the proposal is moving through Congress slowly as legislators concentrate on other matters.

The Senate committee has held hearings and probably will send a bill to the Senate floor later this year, a committee official said. But the House committee has yet to schedule hearings.

"This legislation is vital if we are to stop the spreading criminal use of false identification," department official Robert Keuch told the Senate committee in May.

Current laws deal with false identifications in a piecemeal fashion, and none addresses the problem directly.

The proposed legislation would tackle the situation headon. The bills are written in a way that would prohibit some of the most successful tactics criminals have used to get false papers.

One scheme involves locating a cemetery headstone listing the death of an infant who was born about the same time as the person seeking the false identification. The individual usually can write for the dead infant's birth certificate, and it will be sent to him with no questions asked.

A birth certificate can be used to obtain a driver's license, credit cards, a passport and a whole walletful of identifying documents.

The advisory committee of government officials, business executives and other private citizens estimated that 80 per cent of the hard drugs smuggled into the United States are handled by organized rings.

House and Senate committee members have not yet decided what the penalty should be for violating the proposed law. The Senate committee source said the crime probably would be made a felony, and that would mean a maximum prison term of at least a year.

Though the department "enthusiastically supports" the bill, Keuch said, as the measure is presently written, department and FBI officials themselves would be guilty of violating it.

The department frequently obtains false papers for witnesses in organized crime cases who are moved to new homes and given new identities to protect them from underworld retaliation. The FBI also provides new identities for defectors from the Communist bloc.

Keuch asked the committee to include a provision exempting these from the ban on false identities.

Study Lawnmower Protection, Noise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consider the lawnmower. The government is.

While the Consumer Product Safety Commission ponders the protection of the mowing public against whirling blades and mower-launched projectiles, the Environmental Protection Agency is trying to cut the noise.

It is in hearings and in court. No less a personage than U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica is presiding in the case of power mower manufacturers versus government efforts to brand their product a source of noise.

This seems appropriate, for the matter of the American lawnmower is no trivial issue. If the Battle of Waterloo was won on the playing fields of Eton, generations of American youths learned lessons of discipline and common sense on the mowing lawns of the suburbs.

The government isn't fussing about people-powered mowers. It's the ones with the engines.

The Consumer Product Safety Commission says more than 50,000 people are injured in power mower accidents every year. Rotating blades can cut or mangle hands or feet when somebody slips or defies both the instructions and common sense by reaching under the mower. The blades can shoot out rocks, twigs or debris and wound a bystander.

Hence the effort to set safety standards. The commission has a 99-page set of proposed rules, including one that would require mowers to be equipped with a gadget that would stop the blades if you let go of the controls. Another would require safety shields to keep the mower from shooting out debris.

Then there's the noise issue. The consumer product agency had considered rules on that, but dropped them after the Environmental Protection Agency declared power mowers to be a major source of noise.

That declaration means the EPA must impose mandatory noise control standards within two years. The mower manufacturers have gone to court trying to prevent that from happening.

Between sound and safety, the manufacturers contend they're facing over-regulation and rules that would cost consumers millions of dollars a year in higher lawnmower prices.

That makes quite an issue of the lawnmower. Of course there are alternatives to government regulation.

The noise wouldn't be much of a problem if the neighborhood — almost every neighborhood — didn't have somebody who is moved to mow at the crack of dawn on Sundays.

Caution and sense could take care of most safety problems, and no matter how many devices are built in to keep people from tangling with the blades, some will figure a way around them.

Then, too, there's always the old fashioned way, the mower you push. That one is guaranteed to stop when you let go of the handle.

Claim Begin To Deliver Plan For Mideast Peace

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin, arriving here for talks with President Carter, is carrying a secret "complete Mideast peace plan" designed to serve as a basis for negotiations with the Arab states.

Carter, convinced by the State Department and key advisers that a settlement depends on setting up a Palestinian homeland, is said to have hopes that the document reflects a softening of Begin's determination to retain control of the West Bank of the Jordan River and Gaza.

Begin was to arrive here today to open talks with the President.

Approved unanimously by the Israeli cabinet in advance of the 63-year-old onetime guerrilla leader's trip, the contents so far have been leak-proof — a remarkable development in a close-knit country that thrives on rumor and "inside information."

There is speculation that the plan reflects the views of Foreign Minister Moshe Dayan, a key strategist in the new government, who would establish a semi-autonomous Arab civil administration on the West Bank and in Gaza under a continued Israeli security presence.

Carter, who holds the first of three scheduled sessions with Begin on Tuesday, has given evidence of some conciliation of his own. Having shaken the Israelis by endorsing a Palestinian homeland, he now says unequivocally it should not be an independent state — which Begin says would place Israel in "mortal danger" — but some sort of "entity" tied to Jordan.

Carter offered the reassurance at a news conference last week, along with a disavowal of any intention of imposing terms on Israel. The new government in Jerusalem, like its predecessors, is sensitive to U.S. pressures, believing meanwhile that the only settlement the Arabs might keep is one they negotiated directly with Israel.

Begin, a hard-liner both militarily and philosophically, has described the West Bank and Gaza as "the inalienable legacy of our forefathers." There is considerable doubt he is prepared to relinquish what is described in Ezekiel as "the Land of Israel" and he and other militants still refer to the areas by the ancient names of Judea and Samaria.

Carter, himself a student of the Bible, is likely to find Begin more prepared to meet U.S. desires for retreat on the Golan Heights and in Sinai, which were not part of the promised land. Dayan has foreseen an Israeli pullback from a substantial part of these territories, providing there is demilitarization as well as a joint Arab-Israeli presence in some strategic areas.

Along with the sweet talk, the administration also has admonished Israel that she is expected to withdraw on all fronts.

On the eve of the Begin visit, Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for the first time raised the possibility of establishing diplomatic and trade relations with Israel within five years of the signing of a general peace agreement.

This would tend to meet Jerusalem's demands for "real peace," rather than some undefined cessation of hostilities.

Plagiarism Trial Begins

KENT, Ohio (AP) — A Puerto Rican businessman accused of plagiarizing part of his dissertation for a doctor of business administration degree at Kent State University in 1976 faces a closed hearing on the charges here today.

The graduate council of the College of Business will hear the charges against Andres Bermudez, according to Robert Williamson, acting dean of the College of Fine and Professional Arts. Williamson will serve as moderator of the council.

After the hearing is concluded and a recommendation, if any, is made to the university president or trustees, material related to the charge probably will be made public, Williamson said.

Bermudez is accused of pirating at least 71 pages of the 262 page dissertation from some four sources, including 34 pages copied complete with footnotes from an article by New York tax lawyer Harvey P. Dale.

Officials of New York University hold the copyright on the Dale article and have threatened to sue for copyright violation.

Last fall, an investigating committee report said at least 10 business school professors took trips to Bermuda at Bermudez' invitation and at no expense to themselves.

Bill Would Boost ADC Pay

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A budget-related "language" bill, set for a vote Tuesday in the House, has built-in potential for an increase in Aid to Dependent Children benefits at any time during the next two years.

The bill has generated considerable controversy since its passage in the Senate, but most of it has focused on finding an equitable way to distribute state money to Ohio's 617 public school districts.

An amendment sponsored by Rep. Pete Crossland, D-42 Akron, however, has caught the eye of Budget Director William W. Wilkins, who notes that it gives the State Controlling Board power to increase ADC payments.

Majority Democrats provided a relatively modest $3.25 per recipient increase in the two-year budget enacted June 30. The Crossland amendment would permit the seven control board members to raise that by at least 25 cents per recipient, if they determine money is available in other sections of the welfare budget, or if the case load is lower than expected.

Wilkins said the proposal would continue a "terrible precedent" of expanding the power of the State Controlling Board, which is dominated by majority Democratic legislators.

The board is initially set up to oversee an emergency fund, basically for disaster aid, and rule on requests by state agencies to waive competitive bidding on projects. But its power has been expanded far beyond that scope in the past two years.

"This (amendment) puts a terrific burden on the control board," said Wilkins who as Gov. James A. Rhodes chief fiscal officer has one representative on the panel. Wilkins said the controllers would have only "rough estimates" available in making advance decisions on whether to raise benefit levels.

The board already has its hands on $23 million of the ADC subsidy for the current year and is holding in escrow the entire second year subsidy for ADC and Medicaid. The amendment does not allow for control board increases in Medicaid or general relief.

"We have a problem with it," said Kenneth Creasy, the new director of the Department of Public Welfare.

Assuming the bill passes Tuesday, Wilkins and Creasy could conceivably get a last grasp to lobby against the AC plan in a joint House-Senate conference committee.

The budget director has reached agreement with House Democrats on another section of the bill calling for uniform accounting at all state agencies. Originally, devising the accounting plan was to be almost entirely the prerogative of Democratic state Auditor Thomas E. Ferguson.

But the House Finance Committee has now decided to let the Rhodes Administration Department of Administrative Services draw up a proposal, while still leaving Ferguson with the final say.

Study Product Performance

By LOUISE COOK

The federal government is trying to take some of the guesswork out of shopping by encouraging manufacturers to provide labels telling consumers everything from how well a product performs to how much noise it makes.

Most of the programs are still in their infancy, but officials said efforts will be made to avoid overlapping labels and duplication of information.

The latest move is a Commerce Department program on performance. The program, which is strictly voluntary on the part of the manufacturers, is designed to give information on such things as load capacity, strength and durability so shoppers are better able to compare competing models and brands of appliances and other products.

The data will be provided by manufacturers on the basis of tests developed by the Commerce Department's National Bureau of Standards. The government itself will not do the actual testing.

Other federal programs in the area of product information include a proposal by the Environmental Protection Agency for noise labels and efforts by the Federal Energy Administration to help shoppers learn about operating costs and energy consumption of appliances.

Thus far, the performance labeling project is limited to a one-year pilot program which began June 24. The first step, according to officials, is to decide which products should be labeled and both consumers and manufacturers have been asked for suggestions.

The government hopes to develop labels for between one and three products in the first year. At the end of the 12-month period, the results will be evaluated so officials can decide whether to continue the program.

Robert Mills of the Office of Product Standards said last week that the office was still collecting comments, but hoped to have recommendations ready for Commerce Secretary Juanita Kreps within a few weeks.

"We would then publish proposed labels and proposed fees," Mill said. The labels will include a Department of Commerce logo.

Mills said there already were indications of interest from some manufacturers. He said fees for use of the labels had not been set, but added,

"We're talking like a 10th of a per cent of the price of the retail product."

Mills also said that the labeling program could ultimately save money for manufacturers by cutting down complaints from consumers who didn't understand what the products were supposed to do.

Mills said the first products to be included probably will be those for which standardized tests already are available. Among the items suggested by the public so far for labeling are electric irons, hand-held calculators, nine-volt batteries, solar equipment, home insulation and auto and furnace efficiency devices.

Anyone who wants to suggest a product for performance labeling should write to: Consumer Product Information Labeling Program, Office of Product Standards, U.S. Department of Commerce, Washington, D.C., 20230.

Sheriff, Police Team To Nab Murder Suspect

Close work between the Circleville Police Department and the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department resulted in the early Sunday apprehension of a man suspected of a Halifax County, North Carolina murder on July 2 of this year.

According to reports from Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff and Sgt. Larry Pontious of the Circleville Police Department, the suspect, identified as Terry Lee Radicichis, (alias Terry Lee Shultz) was apprehended as he slept in a car which was parked at the Airy Acres Campground beside A.W. Marion State Park east of Circleville.

A Phoenix, Ariz. man supplied the first tip that started officers on the trail of the murder suspect.

The Arizona man, Patrick Denn, along with a friend, had been hitchhiking in Ypsilanti, Michigan and they had been given a ride to Circleville by Radicichis.

After being with Radicichis for a little over 24 hours, Denn noticed that he was slightly irrational in his behavior and showed signs of nervousness. When Denn got the opportunity, he copied down the registration information from the glove compartment of the 1976 Chevrolet, along with a phone number in Berwick, Pennsylvania.

When he was by himself Saturday evening, Denn called the Pennsylvania phone number and asked for Rosalynn Elizabeth Sachs, the name listed on the registration. The woman he talked with in Berwick Pennsylvania stated that she didn't know the Sachs woman, but said she thought that Ms. Sachs had been murdered a few weeks ago in North Carolina while visiting relatives.

After the phone conversation, Denn stopped Ptl. Ron Thompson of the Circleville Police Department and gave him the information. Thompson entered the registration information into the NCIC computer and the vehicle came back as having been involved in a murder in North Carolina over two weeks ago. Denn told Thompson that the Radicichis subject was camped at the Airy Acres Campground.

Circleville Police contacted the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. Detective J. Phillip Brown of the SO along with Sgt. Pontious went to the campgrounds, where they found the suspect asleep in the rear of the car. Detective Brown arrested the suspect and contacted the Halifax County, N.C. Sheriff's authorities.

Based on information received from local authorities, the Halifax County authorities took out a warrant for Radicichis' arrest and arrived in Circleville Sunday to take him into custody.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, Radicichis gave a total confession to the authorities, giving them details and facts of the murder of the Sachs woman. He has been charged with murder by the North Carolina authorities.

Sheriff Radcliff stated that Ms. Sachs had been visiting relatives in the southern states, and that the murder occurred near the town of Halifax, North Carolina. The victim was found in an area several hundred feet from Interstate 95, and she died approximately 40 minutes after being rushed to Halifax County Hospital. Prior to her death she was able to give officers some information, the most important being that her car was missing and that the first name of her assailant was Terry.

The Arizona man, Patrick Denn, along with a friend, had been hitchhiking in Ypsilanti, Michigan and they had been given a ride to Circleville by Radicichis.

After being with Radicichis for a little over 24 hours, Denn noticed that he was slightly irrational in his behavior and showed signs of nervousness. When Denn got the opportunity, he copied down the registration information from the glove compartment of the 1976 Chevrolet, along with a phone number in Berwick, Pennsylvania.

When he was by himself Saturday evening, Denn called the Pennsylvania phone number and asked for Rosalynn Elizabeth Sachs, the name listed on the registration. The woman he talked with in Berwick Pennsylvania stated that she didn't know the Sachs woman, but said she thought that Ms. Sachs had been murdered a few weeks ago in North Carolina while visiting relatives.

After the phone conversation, Denn

stopped Ptl. Ron Thompson of the Circleville Police Department and gave him the information. Thompson entered the registration information into the NCIC computer and the vehicle came back as having been involved in a murder in North Carolina over two weeks ago. Denn told Thompson that the Radicichis subject was camped at the Airy Acres Campground.

Circleville Police contacted the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department. Detective J. Phillip Brown of the SO along with Sgt. Pontious went to the campgrounds, where they found the suspect asleep in the rear of the car. Detective Brown arrested the suspect and contacted the Halifax County, N.C. Sheriff's authorities.

Based on information received from local authorities, the Halifax County authorities took out a warrant for Radicichis' arrest and arrived in Circleville Sunday to take him into custody.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, Radicichis gave a total confession to the authorities, giving them details and facts of the murder of the Sachs woman. He has been charged with murder by the North Carolina authorities.

Sheriff Radcliff stated that Ms. Sachs had been visiting relatives in the southern states, and that the murder occurred near the town of Halifax, North Carolina. The victim was found in an area several hundred feet from Interstate 95, and she died approximately 40 minutes after being rushed to Halifax County Hospital. Prior to her death she was able to give officers some information, the most important being that her car was missing and that the first name of her assailant was Terry.

Caribbean Girl Is Miss Universe

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic (AP) — The first black Miss Universe, Janelle Penny Commissiong, says she doesn't think the title will change her life.
"I don't think I'll be getting the eight hours sleep I'm used to. But I don't see how I'll change just because I was selected Miss Universe," the 24-year-old U.S.-educated fashion designer told reporters Sunday.
Miss Commissiong, from the twin Caribbean island nation of Trinidad-Tobago, broke a 25-year-old color barrier when she was crowned Miss Universe 1977 here Saturday night.

She called her victory "a step in the right direction" toward changing racial attitudes, but she added, "It would take more than a pageant."
Many of the 16 black contestants had complained during the two-week pageant preliminaries that they were ignored by photographers who concentrated on white competitors.
Along with the crown, Miss Commissiong won prizes that included $23,000 in cash, a $3,500 beauty scholarship, a car and a $15,000 movie contract.
Miss Universe 1977 was selected by a panel of 12 judges from a field of 80 contestants.
The runnersup were, in order: Miss Austria, Eva Durringer; Miss Scotland, Sandra Bell; Miss Colombia, Aura Mojica, and Miss Germany, Marie-Luise Gassen. Miss USA, Kimberly Tomes of Houston, was one of 12 semifinalists.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market advanced broadly today, following through on last Friday's gains.
Gainers outnumbered losers by about a 2-1 margin in the early tally of New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.
The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, however, dipped a fraction in early trading.
Analysts noted that traders lately have shunned the bluechip issues in the Dow, which have performed poorly all year, in favor of the broad range of so-called secondary issues.
Today's early prices included Georgia-Pacific, unchanged at 29; Digital Equipment, up 1/2 at 48 1/4; Phillips Petroleum, ahead 1/2 at 32 1/2, and Pacific Gas & Electric, off 1/4 at 24 3/4.
On Friday the Dow Jones industrial average rose 2.96 to 905.95, cutting its loss for the week to 2.04 points.
Gainers outnumbered losers by an 8-5 margin on the NYSE.
Big Board volume reached 29.12 million shares, the heaviest total since a 29.73 millionshare day on June 21.
The NYSE's composite index added .29 to 54.99.

Interagency Fire Center was to send a crew of 20 firefighters into the Jackson Hole area of Wyoming near the Idaho border today. A fire there has burned more than 40 acres in an area hard hit by forest fires earlier this year.
The three firefighters died Saturday when winds suddenly changed direction and fanned flames over a smaller area already burning, said a forest service spokesman. They tried to run through the wall of fire, but, "They were trapped on the line and couldn't outrun the fire," the spokesman said.
About 280 ground firemen were aided by bulldozers, five helicopters and five bombers dropping fire retardant.

Solons Deny Participation In Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Democratic Leader Jim Wright today denied a report alleging they are involved in the South Korean influence-buying scandal.
Wright accused ABC News of irresponsible journalism by airing the report, which quoted an unnamed source. If ABC will name the source, Wright said, "I will tell him to his face he is a categorical liar."

An aide to O'Neill also denied the story, saying O'Neill's only connection with the affair was that he attended two parties given by South Korean businessman Tongsun Park before the allegations surfaced that Park tried to buy political influence by giving congressmen cash and gifts.
"He (O'Neill) never took any money from Tongsun Park. Park never asked him for anything," the aide said.
ABC said its source is in London.
Park is in London. Philip A. Lacovara, who resigned Friday as chief investigator of the House probe into the allegations, is in England on vacation.

Wright said ABC refused to identify the source or state "just exactly what that person was implying that I had supposedly done."
"I am one member of Congress who has not at any time accepted any money, any gift or any campaign contribution from any person involved in this investigation," Wright said.
Meanwhile, Common Cause, which calls itself a citizens lobby, called for the removal of Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., as chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct which is conducting the investigation.

Arm Wrestling Set At Franklin Fair

HILLIARD, Ohio (AP) — The midwestern arm wrestling championship will be decided this week at the 64th annual Franklin County Fair, which opened today and runs through Sunday.
The matches begin Saturday afternoon under the supervision of wrestler "Flying Fred" Curry. There will be separate categories for men, women and children based on age and weight.
Other events at the fair will include harness racing daily through Thursday, The Hurricane Hell Drivers on Friday, country music singer Donna Fargo on Saturday and a massive demolition derby to close out the fair Sunday evening.
Other county fair openings this week are today at Wellston, Tuesday at Carrollton, Wednesday at Lebanon and Saturday at Springfield.

Chopper Copilot Left Ohio Job

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — CWO Glenn Schwanke, the copilot of a U.S. helicopter shot down by the North Koreans last week, left a job in Clay Center, near here, in 1970 to join the Army.
Schwanke, who was released by the North Koreans Saturday, was sent to the White Rock Quarry in 1970 as a maintenance welder to fill in for a worker who was ill, according to Louis Liegel, superintendent of the limestone quarry.
He was sent to Ohio from the company's parent firm in Plain, Wis., about six miles from his home town of Spring Green, Wis., Liegel said.
"Everybody liked him. He was a guest in my home a couple of times," Liegel recalled. "He was a typical redheaded country boy and a good fellow," he said. "We were sorry to see him leave."

in the same forest, including one in Timber Canyon contained Saturday night but still burning in spots early today. Another burned in heavy timber 10 miles north of Hanna, and a third was on Horse Ridge 30 miles southwest of Duchesne.
Another 600-acre fire was reported on rangeland northeast of Nephi in central Utah and was threatening forests on Mt. Nebo.
The fire that broke out in grass at the bottom of the canyon Saturday afternoon shot up the canyon, destroying five homes, one garage and nine vehicles. No injuries were reported.
Several hundred persons evacuated from their homes were allowed to return after the fire moved above the canyon into heavy but uninhabited timber.

Check Theft From Purse

Circleville Police patrolman Don Barton investigated a report of theft at the General Electric Lamp Plant Saturday.
According to the report, Ruth A. Lingo, 2035 Ottawa Drive, stated that someone removed four personal checks, a payroll check, and credit cards from her purse while she was at work.

Common Cause Seeks Ouster Of Rep. Flynt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause wants Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., to be removed as chairman of the House ethics committee, saying he is incapable of leading the panel's investigation into alleged South Korean influence-buying in Congress.
But Flynt declares he will not quit.
"I'm 62 years old and have never run from a fight. I don't intend to tuck my tail and run now," he was quoted as saying.
In a telegram to all Democratic House members, David Cohen, president of the self-styled citizen's lobby, said of Flynt:
"His performance in the Korean investigation has again demonstrated he is totally incapable of carrying out this crucial responsibility."
"Rep. Flynt's removal is absolutely essential if the House of Representatives is to have credibility in the country."
Cohen's remarks on Sunday followed the resignation of Philip A. Lacovara, chief counsel of the committee's investigation into reports that the South Korean government sought to acquire influence in Congress through gifts of money and favors to some lawmakers.
Lacovara had complained that the slow pace of the investigation had hampered his work.
The Washington Post also reported that the Justice Department has found a ledger belonging to South Korean businessman Tongsun Park that apparently details payments to several congressmen.
The Post emphasized the listings did not necessarily indicate that cash actually had been delivered, but said the Justice Department was using the ledger entries for leads.

Humid Air Dominates Weather

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:
High pressure continues to dominate the eastern third of the United States. Very warm and humid air is flowing into Ohio and no real change is expected until late in the week.
Afternoon temperatures will climb into the low to mid 90s over much of the state and the only hope for short term relief will be scattered afternoon or early evening thundershowers.
FIELD OPERATIONS—Field workers are again urged to be alert for signs of heat stress or fatigue. Work periods may need to be shortened. Evaporative losses will exceed 25 to 30 hundredths of an inch daily. Moisture losses from evaporation and plant useage will be extremely high. Afternoon wilt or turning is expected.
LIVESTOCK—Livestock will continue to need abundant water and shade. Confined animals will need continuing ventilation. Backup systems should be in good working order. Hogs are especially vulnerable to heat stress and a spray mist system near resting areas would be beneficial. Transport during daytime hours will be very risky.

HAYING AND HARVESTING—Haying conditions will be marginal. Drying will be moderate. High humidities and heavy dew will slow drying. There will be a risk of wetting during afternoon hours. Field regrowth will be slow due to dryness. Fruit and vegetable harvest will be hurried as high temperatures push mature crops through the peak quality harvest period quickly. Early varieties of the potato crop will be entering harvest stages, and the high temperatures and humidity will produce difficult digging, harvesting, and storage conditions.

INSECT AND DISEASES—The high temperatures will allow explosive population growth of insects. Economic levels can be reached quickly and control measures may be needed. The high humidities, heavy dew and scattered wetting is conducive for the spread of fungus type diseases. Preventive programs should be continued.

Reynolds Metals Reports Increase In Income

RICHMOND, Va. — Reynolds Metals Company today reported net income of $33,680,000 or $1.90 per common share for the second quarter. This compares with $20,116,000 or $1.12 a share in the second quarter a year ago.
Net sales for the second quarter were $632,740,000 compared with $547,302,000 in the same quarter last year.
For the first six months net income was $44,018,000 or $2.45 per common share, on sales of $1,179,928,000. This compares with net income of $33,411,000 or $1.84 per share, in the first half of 1976 when net sales were $1,017,767,000.
Second quarter results represent a 9.4 per cent return on invested capital (shareowners' equity plus long-term debt) and 15.0 per cent return on shareowners' equity, both on an annual basis.
Tonnage shipments for the 1977 second quarter were 325,300 tons, up from 321,000 tons in the same period a year ago, and ahead of the 305,000 tons in this year's first quarter.
David P. Reynolds, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said improvement in the second quarter "resulted from a more favorable product mix, from greater utilization of fabricating facilities and from improved margins compared with a year ago."

Solons Deny Participation In Scandal

WASHINGTON (AP) — House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill and Democratic Leader Jim Wright today denied a report alleging they are involved in the South Korean influence-buying scandal.
Wright accused ABC News of irresponsible journalism by airing the report, which quoted an unnamed source. If ABC will name the source, Wright said, "I will tell him to his face he is a categorical liar."
An aide to O'Neill also denied the story, saying O'Neill's only connection with the affair was that he attended two parties given by South Korean businessman Tongsun Park before the allegations surfaced that Park tried to buy political influence by giving congressmen cash and gifts.
"He (O'Neill) never took any money from Tongsun Park. Park never asked him for anything," the aide said.
ABC said its source is in London. Park is in London. Philip A. Lacovara, who resigned Friday as chief investigator of the House probe into the allegations, is in England on vacation.
Wright said ABC refused to identify the source or state "just exactly what that person was implying that I had supposedly done."

"I am one member of Congress who has not at any time accepted any money, any gift or any campaign contribution from any person involved in this investigation," Wright said.
Meanwhile, Common Cause, which calls itself a citizens lobby, called for the removal of Rep. John J. Flynt, D-Ga., as chairman of the House Committee on Standards of Official Conduct which is conducting the investigation.

Wright said ABC refused to identify the source or state "just exactly what that person was implying that I had supposedly done."

Arm Wrestling Set At Franklin Fair

HILLIARD, Ohio (AP) — The midwestern arm wrestling championship will be decided this week at the 64th annual Franklin County Fair, which opened today and runs through Sunday.
The matches begin Saturday afternoon under the supervision of wrestler "Flying Fred" Curry. There will be separate categories for men, women and children based on age and weight.
Other events at the fair will include harness racing daily through Thursday, The Hurricane Hell Drivers on Friday, country music singer Donna Fargo on Saturday and a massive demolition derby to close out the fair Sunday evening.
Other county fair openings this week are today at Wellston, Tuesday at Carrollton, Wednesday at Lebanon and Saturday at Springfield.

Chopper Copilot Left Ohio Job

PORT CLINTON, Ohio (AP) — CWO Glenn Schwanke, the copilot of a U.S. helicopter shot down by the North Koreans last week, left a job in Clay Center, near here, in 1970 to join the Army.
Schwanke, who was released by the North Koreans Saturday, was sent to the White Rock Quarry in 1970 as a maintenance welder to fill in for a worker who was ill, according to Louis Liegel, superintendent of the limestone quarry.
He was sent to Ohio from the company's parent firm in Plain, Wis., about six miles from his home town of Spring Green, Wis., Liegel said.
"Everybody liked him. He was a guest in my home a couple of times," Liegel recalled. "He was a typical redheaded country boy and a good fellow," he said. "We were sorry to see him leave."

in the same forest, including one in Timber Canyon contained Saturday night but still burning in spots early today. Another burned in heavy timber 10 miles north of Hanna, and a third was on Horse Ridge 30 miles southwest of Duchesne.
Another 600-acre fire was reported on rangeland northeast of Nephi in central Utah and was threatening forests on Mt. Nebo.
The fire that broke out in grass at the bottom of the canyon Saturday afternoon shot up the canyon, destroying five homes, one garage and nine vehicles. No injuries were reported.
Several hundred persons evacuated from their homes were allowed to return after the fire moved above the canyon into heavy but uninhabited timber.

Check Theft From Purse

Circleville Police patrolman Don Barton investigated a report of theft at the General Electric Lamp Plant Saturday.
According to the report, Ruth A. Lingo, 2035 Ottawa Drive, stated that someone removed four personal checks, a payroll check, and credit cards from her purse while she was at work.

Common Cause Seeks Ouster Of Rep. Flynt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Common Cause wants Rep. John Flynt, D-Ga., to be removed as chairman of the House ethics committee, saying he is incapable of leading the panel's investigation into alleged South Korean influence-buying in Congress.
But Flynt declares he will not quit.
"I'm 62 years old and have never run from a fight. I don't intend to tuck my tail and run now," he was quoted as saying.
In a telegram to all Democratic House members, David Cohen, president of the self-styled citizen's lobby, said of Flynt:
"His performance in the Korean investigation has again demonstrated he is totally incapable of carrying out this crucial responsibility."
"Rep. Flynt's removal is absolutely essential if the House of Representatives is to have credibility in the country."

Cohen's remarks on Sunday followed the resignation of Philip A. Lacovara, chief counsel of the committee's investigation into reports that the South Korean government sought to acquire influence in Congress through gifts of money and favors to some lawmakers.
Lacovara had complained that the slow pace of the investigation had hampered his work.

The Washington Post also reported that the Justice Department has found a ledger belonging to South Korean businessman Tongsun Park that apparently details payments to several congressmen.
The Post emphasized the listings did not necessarily indicate that cash actually had been delivered, but said the Justice Department was using the ledger entries for leads.

Humid Air Dominates Weather

Here is the agriculture weather advisory for Ohio provided by the National Weather Service:
High pressure continues to dominate the eastern third of the United States. Very warm and humid air is flowing into Ohio and no real change is expected until late in the week.
Afternoon temperatures will climb into the low to mid 90s over much of the state and the only hope for short term relief will be scattered afternoon or early evening thundershowers.
FIELD OPERATIONS—Field workers are again urged to be alert for signs of heat stress or fatigue. Work periods may need to be shortened. Evaporative losses will exceed 25 to 30 hundredths of an inch daily. Moisture losses from evaporation and plant useage will be extremely high. Afternoon wilt or turning is expected.

LIVESTOCK—Livestock will continue to need abundant water and shade. Confined animals will need continuing ventilation. Backup systems should be in good working order. Hogs are especially vulnerable to heat stress and a spray mist system near resting areas would be beneficial. Transport during daytime hours will be very risky.

HAYING AND HARVESTING—Haying conditions will be marginal. Drying will be moderate. High humidities and heavy dew will slow drying. There will be a risk of wetting during afternoon hours. Field regrowth will be slow due to dryness. Fruit and vegetable harvest will be hurried as high temperatures push mature crops through the peak quality harvest period quickly. Early varieties of the potato crop will be entering harvest stages, and the high temperatures and humidity will produce difficult digging, harvesting, and storage conditions.

INSECT AND DISEASES—The high temperatures will allow explosive population growth of insects. Economic levels can be reached quickly and control measures may be needed. The high humidities, heavy dew and scattered wetting is conducive for the spread of fungus type diseases. Preventive programs should be continued.

Reynolds Metals Reports Increase In Income

RICHMOND, Va. — Reynolds Metals Company today reported net income of $33,680,000 or $1.90 per common share for the second quarter. This compares with $20,116,000 or $1.12 a share in the second quarter a year ago.
Net sales for the second quarter were $632,740,000 compared with $547,302,000 in the same quarter last year.
For the first six months net income was $44,018,000 or $2.45 per common share, on sales of $1,179,928,000. This compares with net income of $33,411,000 or $1.84 per share, in the first half of 1976 when net sales were $1,017,767,000.
Second quarter results represent a 9.4 per cent return on invested capital (shareowners' equity plus long-term debt) and 15.0 per cent return on shareowners' equity, both on an annual basis.
Tonnage shipments for the 1977 second quarter were 325,300 tons, up from 321,000 tons in the same period a year ago, and ahead of the 305,000 tons in this year's first quarter.
David P. Reynolds, chairman of the board and chief executive officer, said improvement in the second quarter "resulted from a more favorable product mix, from greater utilization of fabricating facilities and from improved margins compared with a year ago."

Fuel Rules Ignore Public

U. S. Transportation Secretary Brock Adams' decision to go for an accelerated increase in fuel conservation by new cars beginning with the 1980 model year has stirred considerable opposition within the industry. When Congress passed the Motor Vehicle Information and Cost Savings Act, it stipulated that average gasoline consumption by a manufacturer's model line must reach 20 miles per gallon for 1980 and 27.5 mpg by 1985.

Nothing was written into law concerning the interim years. Adams has specified that the fuel economy must be a progressive one, from an average of 20 in 1980 to 22 miles per gallon in 1981, 24 in 1982, 26 in 1983 and 27 in 1984.

None of the big four American manufacturers is pleased with the Adams timetable, pointing out that to achieve those averages in the early 1980s could mean construction of major small car manufacturing facilities—at added cost to the consumer.

What naturally concerns the industry is how the consuming public will react to increasingly smaller, lighter cars with less power equipment and engines providing less rapid acceleration. Henry L. Duncombe Jr., chief economist for General Motors, expressed the industry's fears this way:

"Those of us in the industry have learned the costly lesson to never underestimate the independence of American consumers. They will exercise their options to buy the cars they want and to buy or not to buy whenever and for whatever reasons they choose—regardless of how much the government may regulate or of how much the manufacturers and dealers merchandise and advertise."

Possessing the technical ability to meet the economy standards, as most within the industry agree they will, is a relatively small part of the picture compared with convincing the public that is what it wants.

Writing For Movies

By JIM BISHOP

How to Write for the Movies... A few simple hints and you're on your way to your first million. Motion pictures fall into categories and out of budgets. To name a few types, there is the War Movie; the Western; Ancient Rome; Mystery; "B" movie; Supernatural; Sex; etc. Try to stick to one at a time.

WAR MOVIE: Try World War II as a setting. The plot consists of a turning point in the war. The Germans are winning. The Japanese are winning. Our hero is a lowly lieutenant. Can be Air Force, submarines, marines.

Has just received a "Dear John" letter from his girl, who has fallen in love with a photo of Heinrich Himmler. Becomes moody. Spends all his spare time deciphering Japanese codes.

Does better with codes than with Hazel. Finds out Japs are about to attack Midway. (Or Germans are coming through forest on snowmobiles.) In spite of opposition of his commander, who has a secret yen for Hazel, gets to Nimitz, Eisenhower, MacArthur or FDR with advancing warning.

At war's end, gets Medal of Honor on White House lawn. Pan to shot of crowd. Hazel is sobbing. Try to keep cost of picture under cost of WWII because it doesn't last as long.

SUPERNATURAL MOVIE: Open with night rain, flapping shutters, howling dogs. Inside mansion, subservient butler has one eye in middle of forehead. He is cozy with little girl called Precious, who stops clocks by glancing at them, makes church bells ring, friends of family die in paroxysms at dinner as she smiles at each one.

By day she plays with dolls. Live ones. Puts whammy on rich aunt who takes to her bed. Bearded physicians examine little girl, find everything normal. As they leave, beards fall out.

Priest exorcises child. He loses Roman collar, becomes waiter in singles bar. Butler slowly winks his one eye at the kid. She loses all supernatural faculties and murmurs; "Oh, Mommy. Where am I?" Grows up to marry nearsighted boy down the lane, who is studying for his master's in "Garbage: Where to Put It."

WESTERN MOVIE: Open with range shot of two horses' you-know what's cantering away from camera. One rider shoots the other. The rest of the story concerns one of several avenues: (1) A fight over water rights. (2) Bad guy shot good guy to get good guy's wife. (3) Cattle barons versus sheep men. (4) Missing deed to ranch.

(5) Train's a-comin' with gold in baggage car. (6) Cache of guns for Mexican bandits.

Whoever you choose, don't forget saloon scene with scarlet women, crooked poker games, and James Stewart, who has but one line, "Draw, podner," and forgets it.

MYSTERY MOVIE: Two ways of doing this. Commit the murder at once. We know who did it but the cops don't. Commit the murder, or murders, later. In either case, the cause of the crimes is smuggled heroin; a banker about to be exposed as a bankrupt klutz; jealousy over a woman—toss a pinch of this in all the plots.

Important: Use about 6,000 feet of film in automobile chases. A helicopter won't hurt either. Villain has hero with gun in belly at final fadeout. Doesn't know cops are listening as he blabs the solution to the mystery in 30 seconds.

ANCIENT ROME: Out of date, but always good for laughs. Take a mad

Caesar, marble courts, a good Christian who would rather be chewed by lions than deny his faith, a blind waif who prays for the Christian, bolts of lightning at proper intervals.

Whatever you do, do not omit the orgy. This requires a thousand dancing vestal virgins—another miracle—couches, the blind waif who has developed a figure and now faces a fate worse than death, and one bunch of grapes.

"B" MOVIE: Anything, as long as it's cheap. Hero is Lame Jonah. Runs a shark pool. Hires young muscular assistant. Wife falls in love with, etc. They plot to toss Jonah to the sharks. At last moment, she realizes the horror of the situation and shouts, "Don't!"

Situation can be changed to northwoods. Hires young assistant. Plot to drop redwood on Jonah. Can also do it on tuna boat. She always screams "Don't!" at the last second.

COMEDY MOVIE: Use any of the above plots, and star Woody Allen.

NEW YORK (AP) — A new phase may be beginning in the stock market, say those who study long-term trends.

Nothing unexpected. Just a shift of awareness by investors who try to stay ahead of the game. The new phase, they say, is growth.

If that sounds familiar, it is. In 1971 growth stocks were "in," as investors piled on a relatively small number of companies with high profitability and low dividend yields.

As happens so often, they overdid it. They pushed up the prices of a favorite 50 to 100 growth stocks far beyond what are now felt to have been realistic prices.

Just as these stocks reached their peaks, business began to get tougher, and growth stocks proved they were just as unglamorous as any other stocks. When the economy slowed, they slowed with it.

A new phase began: investors sought current income, or high dividend return. They played safe; they took their money rather than waiting for future capital gains, which were becoming less and less certain.

Utilities, which paid relatively high dividends, became attractive to the new, conservative investor. And growth stocks, which paid very low dividends, were dumped.

Now, just as they were overvalued in 1973, growth stocks are felt by some investors to be badly undervalued, a consequence of the market's tendency to exaggerate the economic conditions it supposedly reflects.

Once again investors are wondering if they might not be shortchanging themselves by seeking current income rather than future growth. Not only might growth companies come back into favor as vehicles for capital gains, but there's the prospect they also might pay better dividends.

John Wright, chairman of Wright Investors' Service, which advises individual and institutional accounts worth several hundred million dollars, reasons it this way:

"We believe that this shift reflects not only a broad, if somewhat belated, recognition of the excessively depressed price level of growth issues, but also a realization that postrecovery, future dividend growth ... will be much faster and, in the end, more rewarding than the current high income of less profitable cyclical and utility stocks."

That's a large sentence to digest, but in effect it means that growth is once more becoming attractive, at least to some knowledgeable investors.

The test of the new phase, if indeed it is one, will probably come over the next few weeks, when economic indicators will be turning mixed and scaring a good many of the more timid investors.

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — David Douglas Hill, one of two men originally charged with the "trash bag murders," was set free after a grand jury failed to indict him.

Officials said they didn't know where Hill had gone after his release, which came Thursday after the Riverside County Grand Jury ruled that evidence was too skimpy to indict him.

However, the grand jury did indict Hill's former roommate, Patrick Wayne Kearney, on three counts of murder. After his indictment, Kearney appeared before Riverside Superior Court Judge E. Scott Dales, who set a July 28 arraignment date.

"I'll think about mowing the lawn later — right now I'm thinking about washing the car."

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I've been trying for the past three years to become pregnant. No reason has been found in either my husband or me to account for our failure. It is true that as the months go by I get more and more upset. My husband feels that my emotional problems may be the cause of our trouble. This doesn't make me feel any better. Could this be true?

Mrs. D. N., Mich.

Dear Mrs. N.:

About 25 years ago, when infertility clinics were first being founded, much attention was paid to the possible psychological reasons for the failure to attain pregnancy.

Each case was studied from every conceivable aspect, to find the basis of infertility. The chemistry, the hormone balance, and anatomic structures in the woman were investigated. When no apparent reason was found, a psychological diagnosis was frequently arrived at. In fact, at that time, about 40 per cent of all patients in infertility clinics were considered to have psychological reasons for their problem.

Today, less than 10 per cent of these cases are considered of psychological origin. The reason for this, of course, is the vast progress made in highly sophisticated tests that show abnormalities previously unsuspected.

If, after such a complete infertility workup is made, perhaps there should be greater concentration on your emotional status.

You must know that it is no shame or stigma to have psychological studies and psychological guidance. In infertility clinics and in the private practice of medicine, the psyche (the mind) and the soma (the body) are interrelated.

Doctors no longer separate the two in their effort to track down the cause of a problem.

I notice that whenever my husband takes a snack before he goes to sleep he thrashes about all night. I can't convince him that he would have a better night's sleep on an empty stomach.

Mrs. B.C.K., Conn.

Dear Mrs. K.:

Some people can sleep through the night without a problem even after a heavy meal, although this is not generally recommended.

There are others who may be distressed by a simple gelatin dessert and cottage cheese. One learns by past experience what is distressing and what is satisfying.

If your husband's "snack" consists of something like a huge hero sandwich and a pint of beer, your diagnosis is probably correct.

The test of the new phase, if indeed it is one, will probably come over the next few weeks, when economic indicators will be turning mixed and scaring a good many of the more timid investors.

'Trash Bag' Figure Freed

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—David Douglas Hill, one of two men originally charged with the "trash bag murders," was set free after a grand jury failed to indict him.

Officials said they didn't know where Hill had gone after his release, which came Thursday after the Riverside County Grand Jury ruled that evidence was too skimpy to indict him.

However, the grand jury did indict Hill's former roommate, Patrick Wayne Kearney, on three counts of murder. After his indictment, Kearney appeared before Riverside Superior Court Judge E. Scott Dales, who set a July 28 arraignment date.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

I've been trying for the past three years to become pregnant. No reason has been found in either my husband or me to account for our failure. It is true that as the months go by I get more and more upset. My husband feels that my emotional problems may be the cause of our trouble. This doesn't make me feel any better. Could this be true?

Mrs. D. N., Mich.

Dear Mrs. N.:

About 25 years ago, when infertility clinics were first being founded, much attention was paid to the possible psychological reasons for the failure to attain pregnancy.

Each case was studied from every conceivable aspect, to find the basis of infertility. The chemistry, the hormone balance, and anatomic structures in the woman were investigated. When no apparent reason was found, a psychological diagnosis was frequently arrived at. In fact, at that time, about 40 per cent of all patients in infertility clinics were considered to have psychological reasons for their problem.

Today, less than 10 per cent of these cases are considered of psychological origin. The reason for this, of course, is the vast progress made in highly sophisticated tests that show abnormalities previously unsuspected. If, after such a complete infertility workup is made, perhaps there should be greater concentration on your emotional status.

You must know that it is no shame or stigma to have psychological studies and psychological guidance. In infertility clinics and in the private practice of medicine, the psyche (the mind) and the soma (the body) are interrelated.

Doctors no longer separate the two in their effort to track down the cause of a problem.

I notice that whenever my husband takes a snack before he goes to sleep he thrashes about all night. I can't convince him that he would have a better night's sleep on an empty stomach.

Mrs. B. C. K., Conn.

Dear Mrs. K.:

Some people can sleep through the night without a problem even after a heavy meal, although this is not generally recommended.

There are others who may be distressed by a simple gelatin dessert and cottage cheese. One learns by past experience what is distressing and what is satisfying.

If your husband's "snack" consists of something like a huge hero sandwich and a pint of beer, your diagnosis is probably correct.

Five Bialy Children Serve In The Military

MR. AND MRS. ED BIALY

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bialy, 19824 Bolender-Pontius Road, have a military minded family.

Five of their seven children have served or are presently in military service. Mr. Bialy is an old Navy man himself, with 17 years of sea duty to his credit.

He was aboard the USS Tennessee at Pearl Harbor Dec. 7, 1941 when it was bombed by the Japanese.

The Bialys don't hesitate to encourage their children to enlist. "I felt proud of myself when I was in the Navy. I felt like I was doing something worthwhile for my country."

Mr. Bialy is a native of Akron and his wife hails from Pickerington. They picked Pickaway County as their home when Mr. Bialy retired because it is close to Mrs. Bialy's family. "She stayed with me all those years," Mr.

Manufacturers of safety pins, someone said recently, may soon have to put the following warning on their product:

"Do not swallow when open."

The speaker was viewing with alarm the rising number of "product liability" lawsuits charging inadequate warning of danger to the user.

Of course, the law does not require any warning if the hazard ought to be obvious. In one case against the maker of an elastic exerciser, the court said it was not necessary to tell users that rubber, when stretched, can snap back.

"It would be unreasonable," said the court, "to require that a manufacturer warn against every injury which may ensue in the use of his product. A manufacturer cannot (make) a knife that will not cut or a hammer that will not mash a thumb or a stove that will not burn a finger. The law does not require him to warn of such common dangers."

Nevertheless, manufacturers must not take too much awareness for granted. In another case a liquid weed killer did carry a warning about handling the material. But there was no warning that the ground to which it was applied could remain dangerous for days.

A woman became ill by lying on the contaminated ground, and later succeeded in holding the company liable. The court said the company could not assume that users would be alert to this kind of risk.

Furthermore, the warning that is given must be sufficiently conspicuous. The label on a cleaning fluid cautioned against inhaling the fumes. But the caution was in small print, whereas the word "safety" — part of the product's name — appeared much more prominently on the label.

Again, the manufacturer was held liable to an injured consumer. The court said the disproportionate lettering might well "lull the user into a false sense of security."

Rent-A-Depot Plan Booming

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Russell Daly can stroll onto his front porch, flag down a train and ride to school. The commuter line rolls right by the whistlestop station he calls home.

Daly and his partner, Brian Stevens, both 24, are among the dozen or so people in the Philadelphia area who have found Conrail an amiable landlord, anxious to have its abandoned property occupied.

Stevens and Daly went to the railroad real estate office in August 1973 to inquire about leasing the one-story stone structure in Wawa, Pa. The small station, and many others like it, had not had a resident agent since the late 1940s.

"They were interested in having the building occupied because it had become a stopover point for reform school escapees," said Daly, a college student and part-time warehouse worker.

"It was totally gutted. Everything of the remotest value had been removed by vandals. All the windows were broken," he said.

"We started working right away that August," said Stevens. "We'd come in and spend a couple of nights, then go back to our respective houses. We moved in for keeps in January of 1974."

The station's waiting room now is the living room. What was Wawa's post office and ticket counter now is the kitchen, the men's room and ladies' room were combined into one large bathroom and the ceiling was dropped to make room for two bedrooms.

Daly and Stevens did all the renovation, with the exception of $300 in plumbing that local law required a certified plumber to do.

"The renovation has been a continuing process. I'd say we've put $3,000 or $4,000 into it. The financial assistance the railroad provided was the fact that we only pay $25 a month rent," said Daly.

Wawa is what railroaders call a flag station. If you want to catch a train, you step forward on the platform and flag one down. About 15 commuter trains a day pass Wawa, but none after 9:45 p.m.

A Conrail freight usually goes through on Sunday night. "After a while, you don't notice them," Daly said.

Terry Van Wyk Stevens, 21, Brian's new bride and the home's third occupant, talks like someone digging in for the duration.

"They put in oil heat this winter, but the living room still is heated by a coal stove. I guess we'll be living here for a while, though. The rent is cheap," she said.

Both Daly and Stevens say they expect to remain at the station at least two more years, though Conrail won't have any problem finding new tenants when they leave.

"I've seen it in some years when the waiting list was double the number of properties available," said a Conrail spokesman. "It's been going on ever since the late 1940s and early 1950s when the stations became available."

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Burt Campbell, blue collar worker, barges in his wife's boudoir, gets horrified at a blonde in a pink dress, asks his wife if the blonde "is going out dressed like that?"

"No, it's chilly," the blonde says. "I'll take a wrap."

Why Burt's horror? Why, it's his stepson, a homosexual who usually dresses as a man but tried on the dress because — he told his mother — he's considering a sex-change operation.

"It's not like getting a haircut, Jody," reminded she.

Such is "Soap," the new, set-for-September ABC comedy series that even before its premiere is catching flak because so much of it deals with events below the level.

It's caused mutterings about potential public backlash against the "new permissiveness." Newsweek says the show mainly is pushing sex, "and with a harder core than any sitcom has ever dared."

"Soap," though, strikes me as "Mary Hartman" with more air bubbles, a bedroom farce of the kind that gets a few snickers and some polite applause Friday nights at the local Little Theater.

It's about two suburban families, the Tates and the Campbells. And, says ABC programs whiz Fred Silverman, it has plots that aren't settled in only 30 minutes, they weave through successive episodes.

The plot-weaving mills around two middle-aged sisters, Jessica Tate and Mary Campbell. Jessica is wealthy, wed to a philandering executive; Mary is wed to Burt Campbell, who is, gosh, impotent.

Burt is her second husband. He slew her first one without her knowledge. She thinks the departed committed suicide.

Burt's homosexual stepson played in opening episodes as on the verge of flounce — has a brother, an apprentice Mafiosi who doesn't think the kid's "a fruit," just a practical joker.

The Campbells have two grown daughters, one frigid, the other promiscuous; a 14-year-old boy who likes pictures of naked women; a black servant of acid temperament, and a senile grandfather who wears his Army major's uniform and thinks World War II is under way.

Oh, yes, there's a handsome 28-year-old tennis bum who is having separate affairs with Jessica and her promiscuous daughter — neither of whom initially know they're cuddling with the same cad.

ABC, worried about affiliate fears of public uproar, told its stations last week it'll remake parts of the two first episodes, including a tennis scene of mixed triples. It didn't say how.

And Silverman, insisting the show is being done responsibly, said no character will be rewarded for "immoral behavior," that the wicked ultimately will be punished.

Say, that's neat. But time will tell if this exercise in farce works or if "Soap" just floated in on a big publicity bubble that subsequently pops on a Nielsen ratings point.

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — Clermont County law enforcement officers say they plan a crackdown on drug abuse and will form a special weapons and tactics force.

Col James Bedinghaus, secretary of the Clermont County Police Chiefs and Sheriffs Association, noted the group had started "Operation Drugs" in an effort to "put a dent in the drug problem."

"We feel we've got a drug problem in the county and we believe it is time to start doing something about it," said Bedinghaus.

Bedinghaus also noted that the group is accepting applications from officers of all police agencies for the formation of a SWAT team. Presently the county does not have such a special unit.

Mr. Bialy says, there are a lot of advantages to a service career. "I felt real proud of myself when I was in the Navy. I felt like I was doing something worthwhile for my country."

Mr. Bialy is a native of Akron and his wife hails from Pickerington. They picked Pickaway County as their home when Mr. Bialy retired because it is close to Mrs. Bialy's family. "She stayed with me all those years," Mr.

Bialy says.

After leaving the service he worked for the postal service for a while but is now retired. He spends his days golfing, tending the lawn and garden and "as errand boy" for the family.

His service children are: Edward F., a member of the United States Navy four years serving as a dental assistant. He was discharged about a month ago.

Melissa Jane, served four years in the United States Navy in business administration.

Bernadette Dunham is serving in the Air Force at Holloman Air Force Base, New Mexico.

Kitty Joyce is serving in the Air Force in California.

Debbie has enlisted in the Air Force and will begin active duty soon.

In addition to their five children in the service, the Bialys also have three sons-in-law with service records.

Of their seven children, only Melinda Sue and Mary Jo have not been in the service—the former had a heart murmur and the latter never showed an interest in the service according to the Bialys.

'Hit Song' Coming Out

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Big success has eluded bricklayer John Standberry Jr. through his songs, so he's invented a dance he calls Oke-e-e Poke-e-e.

"There was a dance way back called the hokey pokey," he said. "This is a little bit similar but has a lot of modern steps."

Standberry, whose recording of his song about the new dance will be released about the end of the month, crooned a couple of bars in his tenor voice: "I know I can do the Oke-e-e Poke-e-e. Would you like to do the Oke-e-e Poke-e-e?"

Standberry says Elvis Presley was a truck driver when he walked into a studio and recorded a demonstration record, so there's no reason a bricklayer can't get to the top.

Even if financial success never arrives, Standberry said, he's getting self-satisfaction from his music.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Gift To Woman Shocks Friends

DEAR ABBY: We know a woman in her 60s who's been going with a man about her age for about 15 years. He has given her many very expensive gifts such as jewelry, a fur coat, a car, etc.

Last Christmas she decided that she didn't need anything in that line, so she asked him to pay for redoing her living room!

This involved knocking out a wall, refinishing the floor, custom-made draperies and of course all the new furniture.

He paid for it without even batting an eye, but when she told all her friends what her gentleman friend gave her for Christmas, we were shocked. I think this is a far cry from what I have always held Christmas to mean as far as gift giving goes.

I would like your opinion.

SHOCKED
DEAR SHOCKED: A gift is anything a person wants to give another person. Granted, the gentleman's gift was unique (and extremely generous), but if he held still for it, he probably asked her what she wanted. So if it was OK by him, it's OK by me.

DEAR ABBY: I need an answer but I can't sign my name because if anybody ever found out about this it could cost me my job.

If a married man is bisexual and has sex with another man, is he guilty of adultery?

HURTING WIFE
DEAR HURTING: Yes, and he's also guilty of sodomy.

DEAR ABBY: In Joan Crawford's obituary it noted that she had four adopted children. Why not that she had four children? When Karen Quinlan was in the paper so often, why was she always referred to as "the adopted child of the Quinlans"? Why is it necessary for the general public to know something so personal? It should be the business of the families concerned and no one else. Their relationship was the same as any other parent-child, and adoption makes no difference in the way parents feel about their children.

My husband and I have two adopted children and when I introduce them I never say, "This is my ADOPTED daughter (or son)." And in reading the sports section of the paper I never see, "John Doe, the ADOPTED son of Mr. and Mrs. Doe, scored the winning touchdown." It is simply an unnecessary addition as it should be in any public announcement.

My 4-year-old son knows he is adopted, as does his 7-year-old sister. We feel that we are the real parents of our children, and when we die we want our obituaries to say simply that we had two children.

ATLANTA MOTHER.
DEAR MOTHER: I'm with you.

BancOhio Announces Record Earnings

Robert G. Stevens, chairman, president and chief executive officer, today announced record earnings for BancOhio Corporation for both the first half and the second quarter of 1977.

Operating earnings for the first half were $12.9 million or $1.76 per share, a 12 per cent increase over the $11.5 million or $1.57 per share earned in the corresponding 1976 period. Second quarter earnings of $6.9 million or 95 cents per share were 14 per cent higher than the second quarter of 1976 when earnings were $6.1 million or 83 cents per share.

Net income, after securities transactions, for the first six months was $12.8 million or $1.75 per share compared to $1.57 per share for the same period in 1976.

In the first six months of 1977 the Corporation's interest rate differential (the difference between the yield on earning assets and the rate paid on interest-bearing liabilities—primarily deposits) increased 22 basis points over 1976 to 2.93 per cent. This increase, combined with a $241 million growth in average earning assets, increased tax equivalent net interest income 12 per cent to $67 million.

Stevens also reported that commercial loans outstanding, which averaged $544 million in the first half of 1976, increased 20 per cent to an average of $651 million for the first half of 1977. Consumer installment and real estate loans, primarily home mortgages, increased 11 per cent and 14 per cent respectively. Total consumer savings deposits also continued their strong growth patterns of 1976, increasing 17 per cent to a record high level of $1.15 billion.

The provision for loan losses decreased from $5.3 million in 1977. The reserve for possible loan losses were expected to be lower in 1977 than in 1976. However, the reserve for loan losses was increased in recognition of the strong growth in the loan portfolio experienced in the first half of the year.

Caves And Castles Make Interesting One-Day Trip

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club for Circleville Herald.

Your first exposure to the natural phenomena, stalactites and stalagmites may have been on a Viewmaster disc, when you were a child and if you have not seen them in person they may still strike you as something Hollywood dreamed up for Saturday morning television, not something quite real. But the fact is, these magnificent formations are not only real but they exist right here in Ohio.

Two caves in the West Liberty-Bellefontaine area, the Ohio Caverns and Zane Caverns are noted for their vividly colored walls and striking formations of calcium carbonate crystals. The caves, amazingly, stay at a constant temperature of 54 degrees Fahrenheit, winter or summer, a refreshing relief on a hot summer afternoon. Visitors to the caves are bedazzled at every turn in the path at the spectacular display before them. The Zane Caverns have the distinction of being one of the few caves still active, in which the stalactites and stalagmites are still growing.

To make the trip to the caves even more enjoyable, there are shelter houses, picnic tables, and amusements for the children at both caverns. Zane caverns is surrounded by 100 acres of beautiful forests and scenic canyons to explore.

Another phenomena of quite a different nature, but one that sets your mind to wondering, are man made. These are the fabulous Piatt Castles. The castles, Mac-O-Chee and Mac-O-Chee are still owned and operated by members of the Piatt family. The older of the two, Mac-O-Chee, was built by General Piatt to resemble a French fortified castle. It has 35 rooms in its three stories and overhead looms a five-story tower. It took four years to build the walls which are two feet thick and constructed from hand-chiseled cream limestone quarried from the Piatt estate. The castle floors are inlaid oak, walnut and wild cherry and are an inch and a half thick.

The magnificent ceilings were frescoed in France in 1880 and while they have never been retouched are nearly as vivid in color and as beautiful as when they were originally painted.

If you can get away for a one day vacation, this western region of north central Ohio promises a fascinating experience for the entire family.

To reach Bellefontaine from Circleville, north on U.S. 23 to I-270; northwest on I-270 to U.S. 33; northwest on U.S. 33 to Bellefontaine.

Cleveland Trust Hikes Lending Top

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Trust Co. has increased its lending limit to $30 million from $25 million per borrower by transferring $47.6 million from undivided profit to surplus, according to the firm's parent company, CleveTrust Corp.

CleveTrust, a bank holding company, explained that the legal lending limit is 10 per cent of total capital and surplus, which currently is $300 million.

The Crimean War, fought between Russia and Turkey, was supported by Great Britain, France, and Sardinia and lasted from 1854 to 1856.

John Wayne Inks Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne, the 69-year-old star of movies dating back to 1929, has signed an exclusive two-year contract with the ABC television network, ABC said Friday.

ABC declined to say how much Wayne will earn under the contract, which the network says starts with the 1977-78 television season.

The network said Wayne, whose most recent picture was "The Shootist," will "appear as himself in six major two-hour specials, each program unique in concept and each specifically tailored to his talents." It didn't elaborate.

Wayne also will guest star in one variety special a year.

The veteran actor won an Oscar award in 1969 for his portrayal of Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit."

Knife Throw Saves Chutist

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A parachutist dangling upside down from a light plane that was nearly out of fuel was saved when the pilot of another plane tossed him a knife so he could cut himself free, a Yugoslavian newspaper reported Sunday.

The Belgrade daily Politika said the daring aerial rescue took place 2,400 feet above the airport at Murska Sobota, 250 miles northwest of this capital and near the juncture of Yugoslavia, Austria and Hungary.

The paper said 26-year-old Milan Sinic, a skydiver with 586 previous jumps to his credit, was stepping out the plane door when he tripped over some ropes. They held his legs inside, but allowed the rest of his body to fall out.

Sinic could neither climb back in nor get loose, the newspaper reported, and the pilot — now alone in the cabin — could not leave the controls to help.

Worse, the plane was flying on reserve fuel and the pilot faced either running out of gas or landing with Sinic hanging from the door.

Friends on the ground saw Sinic's predicament and one took off in a light plane with a hunting knife, Politika reported.

Flying close to Sinic's craft, the other pilot managed to pitch the knife to the parachutist. He caught it, cut the ropes around his legs, and dropped away. His parachute opened and he landed safely.

Collection Tactics Blasted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The telephone rings, a man picks it up and hears gunshots come over the line.

"Did you hear that? That's your warning, unless you pay the money you owe," a tough talking voice threatens.

That, and some other equally incredible stories were told by Robert S. Tongren, chief of the attorneys general's consumer complaints section, to the House Commerce and Labor Committee.

He appears in support of a bill by Rep. Edward J. Hughes, D-59, Mentor, who wants to crack down on unscrupulous bill collectors who use all sorts of legal and illegal tricks and schemes to frighten even those who fall behind in their obligations through no fault of their own.

Tongren, who mentioned a woman being called shortly after undergoing surgery at a hospital as another example, said the attorneys general's office gets "a fair amount" of such complaints on a regular basis. He said he knows it would get more if a greater portion of the public was aware of where to call.

As it now stands, the state official explained, the attorney general is powerless to act against such tactics. Hughes' bill would change that, and could result in penalties as high as six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The Lake County lawmaker's bill would expand the 1972 Consumer Sales Practices Act under which the attorney general already may move against those who abuse other types of consumer protection laws.

His bill, first of all, requires all debt collection agencies in the state to register with the commerce department, at a cost of $5. Any complaints received there, the way the bill currently is written, requires commerce to refer to the attorney general all complaints in which there is reason to believe the law has been violated.

Prohibitions enumerated in the bill include misrepresenting one's self as an attorney, providing documents which indicate falsely that a court has entered some kind of a judgement against an individual, falsely stating that one represents some kind of government agency, use or attempted use of coercion or making a threat, use of violence, or say that a debt will be increased unless paid, when there is no legal basis for the increase.

Also prohibited by the bill would be "talking by phone with a person at unusual times or at times known to be inconvenient to the person."

Hughes said last week, at the initial hearings on his bill, that several bills are pending in Congress that seeks to deal with the same kind of problems, but that their enactment is uncertain. In any case, "I think Ohio should go ahead and enact its own law," he said.

Wayne National Forest in southern Ohio was created in 1934.—AP

American prizefighter Jack Dempsey was also known as the Manassa Mauler, after his birthplace of Manassa, Colo.

Caves And Castles Make Interesting One-Day Trip

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a series of short tours of Ohio travel attractions prepared by Columbus Automobile Club for Circleville Herald.

Your first exposure to the natural phenomena, stalactites and stalagmites may have been on a Viewmaster disc, when you were a child and if you have not seen them in person they may still strike you as something Hollywood dreamed up for Saturday morning television, not something quite real. But the fact is, these magnificent formations are not only real but they exist right here in Ohio.

Two caves in the West Liberty-Bellefontaine area, the Ohio Caverns and Zane Caverns are noted for their vividly colored walls and striking formations of calcium carbonate crystals. The caves, amazingly, stay at a constant temperature of 54 degrees Fahrenheit, winter or summer, a refreshing relief on a hot summer afternoon. Visitors to the caves are bedazzled at every turn in the path at the spectacular display before them. The Zane Caverns have the distinction of being one of the few caves still active, in which the stalactites and stalagmites are still growing.

To make the trip to the caves even more enjoyable, there are shelter houses, picnic tables, and amusements for the children at both caverns. Zane caverns is surrounded by 100 acres of beautiful forests and scenic canyons to explore.

Another phenomena of quite a different nature, but one that sets your mind to wondering, are man made. These are the fabulous Piatt Castles. The castles, Mac-O-Chee and Mac-O-Chee are still owned and operated by members of the Piatt family. The older of the two, Mac-O-Chee, was built by General Piatt to resemble a French fortified castle. It has 35 rooms in its three stories and overhead looms a five-story tower. It took four years to build the walls which are two feet thick and constructed from hand-chiseled cream limestone quarried from the Piatt estate. The castle floors are inlaid oak, walnut and wild cherry and are an inch and a half thick.

The magnificent ceilings were frescoed in France in 1880 and while they have never been retouched are nearly as vivid in color and as beautiful as when they were originally painted.

If you can get away for a one day vacation, this western region of north central Ohio promises a fascinating experience for the entire family. To reach Bellefontaine from Circleville, north on U.S. 23 to I-270; northwest on I-270 to U.S. 33; northwest on U.S. 33 to Bellefontaine.

Cleveland Trust Hikes Lending Top

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland Trust Co. has increased its lending limit to $30 million from $25 million per borrower by transferring $47.6 million from undivided profit to surplus, according to the firm's parent company, CleveTrust Corp.

CleveTrust, a bank holding company, explained that the legal lending limit is 10 per cent of total capital and surplus, which currently is $300 million.

The Crimean War, fought between Russia and Turkey, was supported by Great Britain, France, and Sardinia and lasted from 1854 to 1856.

John Wayne Inks Contract

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John Wayne, the 69-year-old star of movies dating back to 1929, has signed an exclusive two-year contract with the ABC television network, ABC said Friday.

ABC declined to say how much Wayne will earn under the contract, which the network says starts with the 1977-78 television season.

The network said Wayne, whose most recent picture was "The Shootist," will "appear as himself in six major two-hour specials, each program unique in concept and each specifically tailored to his talents." It didn't elaborate.

Wayne also will guest star in one variety special a year.

The veteran actor won an Oscar award in 1969 for his portrayal of Rooster Cogburn in "True Grit."

Knife Throw Saves Chutist

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — A parachutist dangling upside down from a light plane that was nearly out of fuel was saved when the pilot of another plane tossed him a knife so he could cut himself free, a Yugoslavian newspaper reported Sunday.

The Belgrade daily Politika said the daring aerial rescue took place 2,400 feet above the airport at Murska Sobota, 250 miles northwest of this capital and near the juncture of Yugoslavia, Austria and Hungary.

The paper said 26-year-old Milan Sinic, a skydiver with 586 previous jumps to his credit, was stepping out the plane door when he tripped over some ropes. They held his legs inside, but allowed the rest of his body to fall out.

Sinic could neither climb back in nor get loose, the newspaper reported, and the pilot — now alone in the cabin — could not leave the controls to help.

Worse, the plane was flying on reserve fuel and the pilot faced either running out of gas or landing with Sinic hanging from the door.

Friends on the ground saw Sinic's predicament and one took off in a light plane with a hunting knife, Politika reported.

Flying close to Sinic's craft, the other pilot managed to pitch the knife to the parachutist. He caught it, cut the ropes around his legs, and dropped away. His parachute opened and he landed safely.

Collection Tactics Blasted

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The telephone rings, a man picks it up and hears gunshots come over the line.

"Did you hear that? That's your warning, unless you pay the money you owe," a tough talking voice threatens.

That, and some other equally incredible stories were told by Robert S. Tongren, chief of the attorneys general's consumer complaints section, to the House Commerce and Labor Committee.

He appears in support of a bill by Rep. Edward J. Hughes, D-59, Mentor, who wants to crack down on unscrupulous bill collectors who use all sorts of legal and illegal tricks and schemes to frighten even those who fall behind in their obligations through no fault of their own.

He said he knows it would get more if a greater portion of the public was aware of where to call.

As it now stands, the state official explained, the attorney general is powerless to act against such tactics. Hughes' bill would change that, and could result in penalties as high as six months in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The Lake County lawmaker's bill would expand the 1972 Consumer Sales Practices Act under which the attorney general already may move against those who abuse other types of consumer protection laws.

His bill, first of all, requires all debt collection agencies in the state to register with the commerce department, at a cost of $5. Any complaints received there, the way the bill currently is written, requires commerce to refer to the attorney general all complaints in which there is reason to believe the law has been violated.

but that their enactment is uncertain. In any case, "I think Ohio should go ahead and enact its own law," he said.

Harsha Reports

BY WILLIAM H. HARSHA
Representative To Congress
Sixth District Of Ohio

Presidential press conferences are a mixed blessing where Congress is concerned. Sometimes they can provide a welcomed warning of things to come from the White House—and other times they provide the opportunity for a President to pull a surprise punch.

President Carter's fairly established tendency to change his mind should have been warning enough where the B-1 bomber question was concerned. Yet, most members of Congress, whether for or against the weapons system, seemed surprised when the President announced at his most recent press conference that he had decided to halt production on the bomber.

It is anybody's guess just who he was listening to in reaching his decision. Obviously, it wasn't the House of Representatives, which just hours after the President's announcement, approved and sent to the Senate a $110.1 billion defense appropriations bill with $1.9 billion earmarked for the B-1 bomber program. It also included funds for continuing research and development on the bomber.

The key vote came when the House defeated, by 65 votes, an amendment to delete $1.5 billion from the production of five B-1s. The issue was the subject of considerable debate in the House and served as a warmup for the expected battle in the Senate. The president's decision was particularly surprising in light of the Soviet Union's increasing aggressiveness around the world, its massive buildup of arms, and its flagrant violations of SALT I and the Helsinki Agreement.

Less surprising, but ominous nevertheless was President Carter's disclosure, during his press conference, that most of the important issues in the Panama Canal negotiations have been resolved and that a new treaty can be expected this summer.

I use the term "ominous" because most that has surfaced from the negotiations, publicly or privately, has indicated that a giveaway of the canal to the Republic of Panama is in progress.

The tentative accord which, for some reason, pleases President Carter, is said to give Panama legal jurisdiction of the Canal Zone within three years and a gradually larger role in the operation and defense of the canal until it is turned over completely by the United States by the end of 1999.

In order to insure open and non-discriminatory access to the canal after the Panamanians take it over, a separate treaty is expected to be signed, supposedly giving us the right to intervene should open access be denied.

There is considerable room for skepticism at any treaty made with the current dictator of Panama. His Marxist tendencies and his anti-American posture make his word unreliable from the very start.

Aside from the volatile personality of President Torrijos, since Panama refused to recognize the treaty which gave us the Canal Zone and the canal in the first place, why should we expect her to honor any new treaty, if at some future date she finds it convenient not to do so.

Despite the fact that our operation of the canal has already created an economic boom for Panama, her negotiators are demanding as much as $1 billion in payments for our continued control over the canal during the next 20 years.

Those charged with the defense of this nation are especially concerned at the direction being taken by negotiations over the canal. Retired Admirals Thomas H. Moorer, Arleigh A. Burke, George Anderson, and Robert B. Carney—all former chiefs of naval operations—have urged President Carter to make certain that the United States retains full sovereign control over the canal and Canal Zone for security reasons.

Theirs is sound advice, and I hope that the President is listening. We may not know for sure until the next press conference, but unlike the B-1 bomber decision, this time we have been warned.

Senate To Back B1 Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to back President Carter's decision to scrap the B1 bomber by deleting all money for the controversial airplane from a $111.4 billion defense bill this week.

The Senate is spending most of the week on the defense appropriation bill.

Meanwhile, the House is laboring over an agriculture bill that faces a veto threat and is continuing work on Carter's plan to allow citizens to register and vote in federal elections on the same day.

Carter decided two weeks ago to halt production of the B1 as a replacement for the aging B52. Instead of the B1, which would have been the most costly warplane ever built, Carter chose to modify B52s to carry new cruise missiles.

The Senate is expected to take out of the defense bill $1.4 billion earmarked for construction of five B1s. Sources say the House appears likely to go along with the move to delete the B1 money.

The agriculture bill in the House would extend federal farm and food stamp programs for four years. The measure would cost $11.9 billion next year — a cost Carter has said might compel him to veto the bill.

Included in the measure is $6.3 billion for crop price supports and other basic agriculture programs and $5.6 billion for food stamps.

Later in the week, the House takes up Carter's revamped voting registration bill. House Democratic leaders reportedly are ready to make a major concession to Republicans to get it passed.

The bill's floor manager, Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., said he will accept in principle a Republican proposal to give states a choice in whether to implement the new voting procedure.

The measure would permit unregistered citizens to register and vote on election day at special voting places and would provide federal aid to states to implement the new system.

Ross Sheriff Continues Probe Of Hughes Death

The Ross County Sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the death of Cheryl A. Hughes, 32, Chillicothe.

Missing since July 10, her body was discovered in Kentucky last Wednesday. An autopsy performed at Ashland, Ky. Hospital, showed she died of asphyxiation according to Ross County Sheriff Thomas Hamman.

The nude body of Mrs. Hughes was found along a gravel road about eight miles south of Portsmouth in Greenup, Ky. There were no signs of physical abuse and no indication of rape according to the findings of the autopsy.

Mrs. Hughes was an employee of RCA for four years. She was the daughter of George and Marguerite Daniel Arrowood of Chillicothe.

Other survivors include her husband, Donald W. Hughes, two daughters, Tina Dawn and Jana Michaline, a son, Steven Dwayne and a brother, Keith Bradley Arrowood, Chillicothe.

A spokesman for the Ross County Sheriff's Department said they are still trying to determine who she was with the night of her disappearance and who may have seen her that night.

proportion bill, the Senate is to approve a strip mining reclamation bill and send it to the House for Congress' final approval. The measure is designed to force strip mining operations to restore land damaged by the mining process.

Former President Gerald Ford vetoed two versions of the bill, but President Carter already has said he will sign the bill.

In addition to the floor action this week, the House Ways and Means Committee is starting work on Carter's proposal to refinance major Social Security programs.

Under current conditions, the fund for Social Security disability payments will run out in 1979 and the pensions fund will run out by 1983.

Expand Broiler Market Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — the U.S. Department of Agriculture has expanded its broiler market report to give a broader national picture.

The "Broiler Market at a Glance" is issued each Tuesday afternoon through the Federal-State Poultry Market News office in Columbus and 16 other states. Based on information from more than 100 buyers and nearly 150 processors throughout the country, the weekly reports contain additional data on the supply and demand situation for the current week and the following one.

The information can be obtained from the Columbus office at 65 South Front St. or by a five-minute recorded telephone message from the Atlanta, Ga., market news office at 404-876-1869.

Farmers Union Supports Grain Bill

"Ohio farmers won an important victory July 12, as Amended Substitute House Bill 524 passed out of the Senate Agriculture and Small Business Committee", so stated Charlie Nash, Executive Director of the Ohio Farmers Union.

Nash reported the bill was recommended by Committee Chairman Senator Jerome Stano to the Rules Committee for prompt passage on to the full senate. Action by the senate is expected prior to the anticipated recess the last of July.

The bill is directed to insure adequate training and certification of those people who sample, weigh, grade and moisture test the farmers grain at point of delivery for sale. It also provides the right of the producer to request a federal inspection in making a final determination if an area of doubt should exist between the purchaser and producer in regard to the condition and quality of the grain delivered.

"This bill which passed the house on June 1, under the guidance and support of its chief sponsor, Dale Locker, House Agriculture Chairman of Anna, Ohio, will do much to bring about greater confidence between the grain producers and the grain handlers of this state", said Nash.

The many Farmers Union members from across the state who traveled to Columbus several times at their own expense to give testimony in support of this important piece of legislation are to be congratulated for their fine effort. "It is only through active membership participation and first hand knowledge presented to the committee members that H. B. 524 would ever become a reality", so stated Nash.

Assurance of final passage by the senate can be attained through correspondence to your state Senators by our many members and farmer friends requesting a yes vote for Amended Substitute House Bill 524, when it reaches the senate floor.

"This needed legislation was established as one of priority by the delegates at the 1977 Ohio Farmers Union convention, and final passage will mark several years of support and work by members to make it a reality", so stated spokesman Nash.

Motorcycle Rider Injured

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated a motorcycle injury accident 7:50 p.m. Sunday on Old Tarlton Pike.

Michael P. Wright, 22, of Columbus was on the pike, entered a curve and drove directly off the right side of the road.

His motorcycle flipped over causing Wright to suffer injuries to his left shoulder and elbow. The accident occurred just east of the Morris-Leist Road.

Senate To Back B1 Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is expected to back President Carter's decision to scrap the B1 bomber by deleting all money for the controversial airplane from a $111.4 billion defense bill this week.

The Senate is spending most of the week on the defense appropriation bill.

Meanwhile, the House is laboring over an agriculture bill that faces a veto threat and is continuing work on Carter's plan to allow citizens to register and vote in federal elections on the same day.

Carter decided two weeks ago to halt production of the B1 as a replacement for the aging B52. Instead of the B1, which would have been the most costly warplane ever built, Carter chose to modify B52s to carry new cruise missiles.

The Senate is expected to take out of the defense bill $1.4 billion earmarked for construction of five B1s. Sources say the House appears likely to go along with the move to delete the B1 money.

The agriculture bill in the House would extend federal farm and food stamp programs for four years. The measure would cost $11.9 billion next year — a cost Carter has said might compel him to veto the bill.

Included in the measure is $6.3 billion for crop price supports and other basic agriculture programs and $5.6 billion for food stamps.

Later in the week, the House takes up Carter's revamped voting registration bill. House Democratic leaders reportedly are ready to make a major concession to Republicans to get it passed.

The bill's floor manager, Rep. Frank Thompson, D-N.J., said he will accept in principle a Republican proposal to give states a choice in whether to implement the new voting procedure.

The measure would permit unregistered citizens to register and vote on election day at special voting places and would provide federal aid to states to implement the new system.

Ross Sheriff

Continues Probe Of Hughes Death

The Ross County Sheriff's department is continuing its investigation into the death of Cheryl A. Hughes, 32, Chillicothe.

Missing since July 10, her body was discovered in Kentucky last Wednesday. An autopsy performed at Ashland, Ky. Hospital, showed she died of asphyxiation according to Ross County Sheriff Thomas Hamman.

The nude body of Mrs. Hughes was found along a gravel road about eight miles south of Portsmouth in Greenup, Ky. There were no signs of physical abuse and no indication of rape according to the findings of the autopsy.

Mrs. Hughes was an employee of RCA for four years. She was the daughter of George and Marguerite Daniel Arrowood of Chillicothe.

Other survivors include her husband, Donald W. Hughes, two daughters, Tina Dawn and Jana Michaline, a son, Steven Dewayne and a brother, Keith Bradley Arrowood, Chillicothe.

A spokesman for the Ross County Sheriff's Department said they are still trying to determine who she was with the night of her disappearance and who may have seen her that night.

propriation bill, the Senate is to approve a strip mining reclamation bill and send it to the House for Congress' final approval. The measure is designed to force strip mining operations to restore land damaged by the mining process.

Former President Gerald Ford vetoed two versions of the bill, but President Carter already has said he will sign the bill.

In addition to the floor action this week, the House Ways and Means Committee is starting work on Carter's proposal to refinance major Social Security programs.

Under current conditions, the fund for Social Security disability payments will run out in 1979 and the pensions fund will run out by 1983.

Expand Broiler Market Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — the U.S. Department of Agriculture has expanded its broiler market report to give a broader national picture.

The "Broiler Market at a Glance" is issued each Tuesday afternoon through the Federal-State Poultry Market News office in Columbus and 16 other states. Based on information from more than 100 buyers and nearly 150 processors throughout the country, the weekly reports contain additional data on the supply and demand situation for the current week and the following one.

The information can be obtained from the Columbus office at 65 South Front St. or by a five-minute recorded telephone message from the Atlanta, Ga., market news office at 404-876-1869.

Hall Of Fame Honors Ohioans

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — "My major league career consisted of one at-bat and one strikeout," Walter Alston quipped as he was inducted into the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame Saturday night.

Seriously, Alston, who lives in Darrtown, Ohio, credited "great Dodgers of the past" for his success as manager of the Los Angeles team for 23 seasons.

Another inductee, former National League president Warren Giles, said, "Anything that has something to do with baseball touches me inside."

"I've been connected with baseball for 57 years and anytime we do something for baseball we do something for this great country," Giles added. "I'm not sure it would be great without baseball."

Giles, who also served as general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and Alston were among eight inductees honored for outstanding careers with either the Reds or the Cleveland Indians or who had strong Ohio ties.

Other new members were:

—Lou Boudreau, former player-manager of the Cleveland Indians and member of the national baseball Hall of Fame.

—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Reds coach best remembered as a slugging first baseman with the Reds with 279 career home runs and a .298 lifetime batting average.

—William F. McKinley, native of Kinsman, Ohio, who for 20 years was an American League umpire.

—Roger Peckinpaugh, former player and manager of the Cleveland Indians.

—Johnny VanderMeer, only pitcher to hurl consecutive nohitters, who won 119 games and pitched in three All-Star games and one World Series.

—Early Wynn, who as a Cleveland Indians pitcher was the last in the major league to record 300 career victories.

Giles, Alston, Boudreau, Kluszewski and McKinley were present for the ceremonies.

Hard Luck Hurler Handcuffs Reds

CINCINNATI (AP) — Mark Lemongello could not be blamed if he decided to sue his Houston Astro teammates for nonsupport.

His first full year in the major leagues has been a nightmare.

Before Sunday, his last victory occurred on Friday the 13th last May—and Murphy's Law has prevailed ever since. Anything that could go wrong did.

"I lost games every way possible. I've lost five games by 3-2 scores. The team has only scored four runs in a game for me all year," said the 21-year-old right-hander, who appeared doomed to become a 20-game loser.

Sunday, the Astros got three runs. This time it was enough.

Lemongello and Joe Niekro muffled the Cincinnati Reds' unpredictable bats by combining on an eight-hitter in a 3-1 victory aided by solo home runs from Bob Watson and Enos Cabell.

"It's been a long time," sighed Lemongello after ending a seven-game losing streak.

The hard-luck hurler took a 111 record—and eternal patience—into the game. "The coaches told me not to get down on myself. I knew I had been pitching well enough to win. But it wasn't happening."

Whatever the charm was, it worked. "I thought about changing my uniform number. I tried different caps, gloves, and even bought a rabbit's foot. Nothing worked."

"I considered suicide," he quipped. "But I figured I'd miss."

Working in 100-plus degree temperatures, he scattered six hits in six innings, allowing only a first-inning run when Champ Summers doubled and scored Dan Driessen's single.

Rookie Doug Capilla suffered the loss, despite another strong effort. He allowed only three hits in six innings, but two were homers.

The loss dropped the Reds to 9½ games back at the All-Star break, their worst first-half since 1971's disastrous season.

Pete Rose salvaged something from the defeat. His seventh inning single allowed him to break a tie with Babe Ruth for 23rd place on the all-time career hits list. He is now one behind Mel Ott and six shy of tying Frankie Frisch for most career hits by a pinch hitter.

George Foster did not add to his major league-leading home run total of 28, but he remains one game ahead of the pace set by Hack Wilson, who set the National League record of 56 in 1930.

Foster will be among seven Reds on the NL All-Star roster Tuesday night at New York's Yankee Stadium.

Concepcion Named Best Latin Player

CINCINNATI (AP) — Dave Concepcion, who will be making his third straight appearance in the All-Star Game as the National League's top shortstop, was named winner Sunday of the Roberto Clemente Award as Latin America's top major league baseball player.

The presentation was made during pre-game ceremonies on Latin American Baseball Players' Day at Riverfront Stadium.

The 29-year-old native of Maracay, Venezuela has helped the Reds win two straight world championships with three Gold Glove awards and batting averages of .274 and .281. He has been the National League's top vote-getting shortstop the last three years, including 1977.

Concepcion is considered by many to be the greatest shortstop in Cincinnati history.

Minnie Minoso was named winner of the award last year for special achievement. The award normally goes to active players, according to Luis Rodriguez-Mayoral of Condado, Surtance, P.R., who made the award and organizes the Clemente award.

Concepcion called the award "very special to me because I respected Roberto as the greatest player I've seen and he was a great man. He died trying to help poor people."

Clemente was one of the game's all-time greats during his years with the Pittsburgh Pirates. He died on New Year's Day of 1973 in a plane crash while trying to airlift supplies to survivors of the Nicaraguan earthquake.

Hall Of Fame

Honors Ohioans

NEWCOMERSTOWN, Ohio (AP) —

"My major league career consisted of one at-bat and one strikeout," Walter Alston quipped as he was inducted into the Ohio Baseball Hall of Fame Saturday night.

Seriously, Alston, who lives in Darrrtown, Ohio, credited "great Dodgers of the past" for his success as manager of the Los Angeles team for 23 seasons.

Another inductee, former National League president Warren Giles, said, "Anything that has something to do with baseball touches me inside."

"I've been connected with baseball for 57 years and anytime we do something for baseball we do something for this great country," Giles added. "I'm not sure it would be great without baseball."

Giles, who also served as general manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and Alston were among eight inductees honored for outstanding careers with either the Reds or the Cleveland Indians or who had strong Ohio ties.

Other new members were:

—Lou Boudreau, former player-manager of the Cleveland Indians and member of the national baseball Hall of Fame.

—Ted Kluszewski, Cincinnati Reds coach best remembered as a slugging first baseman with the Reds with 279 career home runs and a .298 lifetime batting average.

—William F. McKinley, native of Kinsman, Ohio, who for 20 years was an American League umpire.

—Roger Peckinpaugh, former player and manager of the Cleveland Indians.

—Johnny VanderMeer, only pitcher to hurl consecutive nohitters, who won 119 games and pitched in three All-Star games and one World Series.

—Early Wynn, who as a Cleveland Indians pitcher was the last in the major league to record 300 career victories.

Giles, Alston, Boudreau, Kluszewski and McKinley were present for the ceremonies.

Carner Putts Way To LPGA Victory

RIVIERA WINNER — JoAnne Carner, pictured above during Friday's opening round of the Borden LPGA tournament, went on to take the $12,000 first prize in the event. Her closing 207 total was one shot better than rookie Pat Myers, and finishing in a tie for third place were Kathy Whitworth, Dorothy Germain, and Laura Baugh.

DUBLIN, Ohio (AP) — JoAnne Carner held aloft her unique practice putter, a solid brass ball on the end of a club, and said, "The magic wand."

"No three-putts this week and I had some long ones," said the beaming strawberry blonde Sunday, moments after she had claimed the No. 1 money winning slot on the 1977 Ladies Professional Golf Association tour.

Mrs. Carner's $12,000 victory, built on a 54-hole total of nine-under-par 209, pushed her yearly earnings to $89,268, $800 more than previous leader Judy Rankin.

Mrs. Rankin ran afoul of the water-logged greens and a balky putter, shooting a 71 for a tie for sixth place and $2,800.

Mrs. Carner, five times a National Amateur champion, bagged her 18th professional triumph and second this year by sinking a four-foot birdie putt at 17. She was unaware that rookie Pat Myers had moved into a tie by sinking a 12-foot birdie putt at 18.

"I just knew no one could catch me at nine under if I made that putt. I had looked at the leader board and there was a bunch at seven under. I didn't realize Pat had made her putt," said Mrs. Carner.

So Mrs. Meyers, closing with a career low of 68, finished second for the second time in three weeks. Her 208

Dick Allen Retires

OAKLAND (AP) — The stormy career of slugger Dick Allen — a paradox of brilliant play and personal controversy — once again has taken an odd twist. He has quit the Oakland A's and has indicated he may want to play in Japan.

A's owner Charles O. Finley said Sunday he received "a very cordial" letter from the infielder Saturday which said he is "retiring from baseball for the rest of 1977."

Finley said Allen, 35, asked about taking his talents to Japan.

"He asked me what the arrangement was for that," Finley said.

Allen joined the A's this year, signing a contract for roughly $100,000. He was suspended by Finley June 21 when the owner caught him taking a shower before a game was over.

Finley said he was disappointed with Allen's decision, but said he is not planning to contact him.

In the 54 games he played for Oakland, Allen hit at a .240 pace with five home runs and 31 runs batted in.

Allen's career has been marred with scraps with management — troubles which are contrasted by his consistently potent bat.

He broke in with the Phillies in 1964, winning National League Rookie of the Year honors with a .318 batting average, 29 home runs and 91 RBI.

He continued to have excellent seasons with Philadelphia, hitting 40 homers and knocking in 110 runs in 1966. The hot batting, however, wasn't enough to offset the controversy.

Allen often showed up late for games, missed practices and once was in the middle of a pre-game scuffle with Frank Thomas which eventually got the other player traded.

The Phillies finally tired of Allen's antics and traded him to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1970 where he lasted one season. His eccentric behavior convinced the Cardinals to ship Allen to the Los Angeles Dodgers. Again, his stint there lasted only a year.

Next, Allen landed on the Chicago White Sox and enjoyed a brief honeymoon under the management of Chuck Tanner, an old family friend who greeted Allen with open arms and let him establish his own tempo.

For a while, Allen prospered and became the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1972, hitting .308 with 37 homers and 113 RBI.

But Allen's romance with the White Sox lasted only three seasons, and he ironically returned to Philadelphia, where he helped lead the Phillies to the National League East title in 1976.

YMCA
SPACE DONATED BY THE SAVINGS BANK

By KEN RAPPOPORT

George Steinbrenner's money hasn't bought happiness yet for Billy Martin—and it certainly couldn't buy any victories for him over the weekend.

The New York Yankees' owner, a big spender during the off-season with free agent stars, flew into Kansas City to help boost the morale of his team with some bonus money, but his players came away empty-handed.

After giving each of his players $300 to spend over the three-day All-Star break, starting today, the Yankees' boss watched his disjuncted squad lose its third straight game to the Royals, this time 8-4.

Martin, the Yankees' manager, was in a furious mood after the loss, the team's seventh on a 10-game road trip.

Yankees reliever Dick Tidrow, victimized by Amos Otis' two-run double and a freak hit by Fred Patek, symbolized the team's current futility with a painfully helpless reaction.

"That ball that Otis hit was a good pitch," said Tidrow. "He got it off the end of the bat. But that's the way it's been going for me. When I pitch bad, I get beat, and when I pitch good ... it doesn't matter how good I pitch."

In other American League action, the Chicago White Sox edged the Boston Red Sox 3-2, the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Baltimore Orioles 3-2, the Minnesota Twins took a doubleheader from the Oakland A's 4-1 and 9-5, the Seattle Mariners beat the California Angels 8-7, the Toronto Blue Jays downed the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in the opener of a doubleheader before losing the second game 7-6 in 11 innings, and the Cleveland Indians stopped the Texas Rangers 6-1.

Otis drove in three runs and Darrell Porter belted a two-run homer as the Royals won their sixth straight game and 23rd in their last 30.

Porter's 415-foot shot off loser Ken Clay scored Otis ahead of him and staked Andy Hassler to a 2-0 lead in the second. After Al Cowens doubled home a run in the fourth, Otis followed with a sacrifice fly, making it 4-1.

Reggie Jackson gave the Yankees their first run with a solo homer in the fourth and Willie Randolph made it 4-2 in the fifth with a run-scoring double.

In the sixth, the Royals pulled away when Pete LaCock and Joe Lahoud drew walks from reliever Dick Tidrow and Otis lashed a two-run double.

White Sox 3, Red Sox 2

Jim Spencer's tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning backed the combined four-hit pitching of Steve Stone and Lerrin LaGrow, leading Chicago over Boston.

Spencer also smashed a double keying a two-run second inning, helping Stone improve his record to 10-7. Stone had nine strikeouts, nailing George Scott and Butch Hobson three times each. He needed last-inning relief help from LaGrow after wilting in 89-degree heat.

Brewers 3, Orioles 2

Rookie Moose Haas checked Baltimore on three hits before needing last-inning relief help, and Ed Romero, another rookie, knocked in the decisive run with an eighth-inning single, leading Milwaukee over the Orioles.

Bobby Sheldon doubled off loser Dennis Martinez leading off the Brewers' first and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Cecil Cooper. The Brewers staged their game-breaking rally in the eighth on RBI singles by Jamie Quirk and Romero, who was just called up to the majors Saturday and had three hits in his second American League game.

Twins 4-9, A's 1-5

Rookie Paul Thormodsgard pitched a six-hitter, leading Minnesota's first-game victory over Oakland. Minnesota broke up the opener with three runs off Oakland starter Rick Langford in the fifth inning.

Larry Hise drove in two runs and scored three times as the Twins won the second game. Hise had a home run, double and single, highlighting an 11-hit Minnesota attack against four Oakland pitchers in the second game. The homer was his 21st of the season, a personal high.

Mariners 8, Angels 7

Dave Collins' two-run homer in the eighth inning carried Seattle past California. Collins' third homer of the season came off loser Dave LaRoche, after a single by Julio Cruz.

The Angels had rallied for three runs in the seventh inning for a 7-6 lead.

Blue Jays 3-6, Tigers 2-7

Jesse Jefferson checked Detroit on five hits and struck out five, leading Toronto's opening-game victory over the Tigers.

Pinch hitter Milt May's homer, his ninth of the season, off Dave Lemanczyk in the 11th inning gave the Tigers the second game.

Indians 6, Rangers 1

Wayne Garland fired a five-hitter and Fred Kendall had three hits and two RBI as Cleveland broke a five-game losing streak by beating Texas. Garland nursed a 2-1 lead from the third inning to the ninth, when Cleveland broke open the game with four runs.

"He asked me what the arrangement was for that," Finley said.

Allen joined the A's this year, signing a contract for roughly $100,000. He was suspended by Finley June 21 when the owner caught him taking a shower before a game was over.

Finley said he was disappointed with Allen's decision, but said he is not planning to contact him.

In the 54 games he played for Oakland, Allen hit at a .240 pace with five home runs and 31 runs batted in.

Allen's career has been marred with scraps with management — troubles which are contrasted by his consistently potent bat.

He broke in with the Phillies in 1964, winning National League Rookie of the Year honors with a .318 batting average, 29 home runs and 91 RBI.

He continued to have excellent seasons with Philadelphia, hitting 40 homers and knocking in 110 runs in 1966. The hot batting, however, wasn't enough to offset the controversy.

Allen often showed up late for games, missed practices and once was in the middle of a pre-game scuffle with Frank Thomas which eventually got the other player traded.

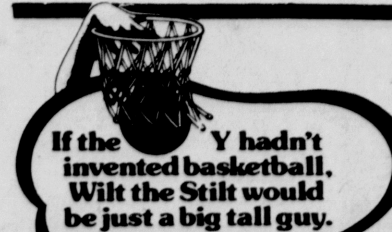

The Phillies finally tired of Allen's antics and traded him to the St. Louis Cardinals in 1970 where he lasted one season. His eccentric behavior convinced the Cardinals to ship Allen to the Los Angeles Dodgers. Again, his stint there lasted only a year.

Next, Allen landed on the Chicago White Sox and enjoyed a brief honeymoon under the management of Chuck Tanner, an old family friend who greeted Allen with open arms and let him establish his own tempo.

For a while, Allen prospered and became the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1972, hitting .308 with 37 homers and 113 RBI.

But Allen's romance with the White Sox lasted only three seasons, and he ironically returned to Philadelphia, where he helped lead the Phillies to the National League East title in 1976.

Royals Rip Rich, Yankees

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

George Steinbrenner's money hasn't bought happiness yet for Billy Martin—and it certainly couldn't buy any victories for him over the weekend.

The New York Yankees' owner, a big spender during the off-season with free agent stars, flew into Kansas City to help boost the morale of his team with some bonus money, but his players came away empty-handed.

After giving each of his players $300 to spend over the three-day All-Star break, starting today, the Yankees' boss watched his disjuncted squad lose its third straight game to the Royals, this time 8-4.

Martin, the Yankees' manager, was in a furious mood after the loss, was team's seventh on a 10-game road trip.

Yankees reliever Dick Tidrow, victimized by Amos Otis' two-run double and a freak hit by Fred Patek, symbolized the team's current futility with a painfully helpless reaction.

"That ball that Otis hit was a good pitch," said Tidrow. "He got it off the end of the bat. But that's the way it's been going for me. When I pitch bad, I get beat, and when I pitch good ... it doesn't matter how good I pitch."

In other American League action, the Chicago White Sox edged the

Boston Red Sox 3-2, the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Baltimore Orioles 3-2, the Minnesota Twins took a doubleheader from the Oakland A's 4-1 and 9-5, the Seattle Mariners beat the California Angels 8-7, the Toronto Blue Jays downed the Detroit Tigers 3-2 in the opener of a doubleheader before losing the second game 7-6 in 11 innings, and the Cleveland Indians stopped the Texas Rangers 6-1.

Otis drove in three runs and Darrell Porter belted a two-run homer as the Royals won their sixth straight game and 23rd in their last 30.

Porter's 415-foot shot off loser Ken Clay scored Otis ahead of him and staked Andy Hassler to a 2-0 lead in the second. After Al Cowens doubled home a run in the fourth, Otis followed with a sacrifice fly, making it 4-1.

Reggie Jackson gave the Yankees their first run with a solo homer in the fourth and Willie Randolph made it 4-2 in the fifth with a run-scoring double. In the sixth, the Royals pulled away when Pete LaCock and Joe Lahoud drew walks from reliever Dick Tidrow and Otis lashed a two-run double.

White Sox 3, Red Sox 2

Jim Spencer's tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning backed the combined four-hit pitching of Steve Stone and Lerrin LaGrow, leading Chicago over Boston.

Spencer also smashed a double keying a two-run second inning, helping Stone improve his record to 10-7. Stone had nine strikeouts, nailing George Scott and Butch Hobson three times each. He needed last-inning relief help from LaGrow after wilting in 89-degree heat.

Brewers 3, Orioles 2

Rookie Moose Haas checked Baltimore on three hits before needing last-inning relief help, and Ed Romero, another rookie, knocked in the decisive run with an eighth-inning single, leading Milwaukee over the Orioles.

Bobby Sheldon doubled off loser Dennis Martinez leading off the Brewers' first and eventually scored on a sacrifice fly by Cecil Cooper. The Brewers staged their game-breaking rally in the eighth on RBI singles by Jamie Quirk and Romero, who was just called up to the majors Saturday and had three hits in his second American League game.

Twins 4-9, A's 1-5

Rookie Paul Thormodsgard pitched a six-hitter, leading Minnesota's first-game victory over Oakland. Minnesota broke up the opener with three runs off Oakland starter Rick Langford in the fifth inning.

Larry Hise drove in two runs and scored three times as the Twins won the second game. Hise had a home run, double and single, highlighting an 11-hit Minnesota attack against four Oakland pitchers in the second game. The homer was his 21st of the season, a personal high.

Mariners 8, Angels 7

Dave Collins' two-run homer in the eighth inning carried Seattle past California. Collins' third homer of the season came off loser Dave LaRoche, after a single by Julio Cruz.

The Angels had rallied for three runs in the seventh inning for a 7-6 lead.

Blue Jays 3-6, Tigers 2-7

Jesse Jefferson checked Detroit on five hits and struck out five, leading Toronto's opening-game victory over the Tigers.

Pinch hitter Milt May's homer, his ninth of the season, off Dave Lemaczky in the 11th inning gave the Tigers the second game.

Indians 6, Rangers 1

Wayne Garland fired a five-hitter and Fred Kendall had three hits and two RBI as Cleveland broke a five-game losing streak by beating Texas. Garland nursed a 2-1 lead from the third inning to the ninth, when Cleveland broke open the game with four runs.

Seaver To Start All-Star Tilt?

CINCINNATI (AP) — Tom Seaver headed to New York City today—scene of his greatest triumphs—for a homecoming that could be highlighted by the starting assignment in the 48th All-Star Game.

It was Seaver's first trip back to New York City since he was traded a month ago by the Mets to Cincinnati in a stunning four-for-one swap.

Tuesday night, he will be trying to help the National League, bolstered by seven members from the world champion Reds, defeat the American League All-Stars for the 14th time in the last 15 games.

Manager Sparky Anderson was reportedly leaning toward a rested Seaver as the starter. Seaver has not pitched since Thursday, when he beat Atlanta 7-1 with a two-hitter.

Die-hard Mets fans were expected to give him a "welcome home" salute with signs and cheers when Seaver and the National League are introduced at Yankee Stadium.

Seaver's selection to the NL All-Star club marks the 10th trip to the All-Star Game, an event that still commands a special thrill for him. "Going in that clubhouse is a fabulous feeling," Seaver said Sunday. "I've always enjoyed it, especially batting practice because the best players in both leagues get together once a year."

He has a 3.60 earned run average in 10 innings of All-Star work, with no decisions in the six games he pitched. Seaver's all-time All-Star team?

Based on 10-plus years in the majors, here is how he rates the National League's best:

—Best power hitters: "Willie McCovey and Willie Stargell."

—Best clutch hitters: "Johnny Bench and Pete Rose."

—Best multi-threat: "Willie Mays, Joe Morgan and Bobby Bonds."

—Best baserunner: "Mays. Because he never seemed to do the wrong thing."

—Best basestealer: "Lou Brock."

—Toughest outs—"Ted Simmons, Al Oliver and Morgan."

—Best at stealing signs: "Gene Mauch's teams."

—Best team of the decade: "Cincinnati. They do everything. They have speed, defense and power."

—Greatest thrill—"Winning the 1969 divisional title. That was very personal, even bigger than winning the series."

—Lowest point—"I think I've just come out of it."

—Longest homers off Seaver: "Stargell. Over the roof at Forbes Field—twice."

Best fastball hitter: "Simmons."

—Best leadoff hitters: "Brock and Rose."

—Favorite ballparks: "Dodger Stadium and Shea Stadium. I just feel very comfortable in both."

Best hitting pitcher: "Rick Wise."

Browns Rookies To Get Game Time

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns face an unusually heavy pre-season schedule and that's good news for the rookies and young veterans who checked in at training camp Sunday.

Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg told the newcomers he would be using them a lot.

"I have no choice," he said. "The pre-season schedule has us playing four games in 18 days."

"We certainly can't play the veterans all the time," Gregg said.

Then he added that the heavy schedule could be a blessing in disguise. "Coaches get into these games and forget about plans to look at people. We'll still be playing every pre-season game to win, but we will have to use all our personnel."

Workouts begin today for the rookies at the Browns 32nd training camp and the third one held at Kent State University. It is also Forrest Gregg's third year as head coach.

The veterans are scheduled to report Friday, be on hand for Family Day and the rookie scrimmage Saturday, and then begin their workouts Sunday.

On June 18, 1895, pitcher Anthony Mullane of the Baltimore Orioles gave up 16 runs in the first inning.

Jockeys Bobby Ussery and Eddie Belmonte are the only riders to bring in two winners of the Jersey Derby. Ussery handled Bally Ache in 1960 and Ambioipse in 1961. Belmonte rode Out of the Way in 1968 and Personality in 1970.

Floyd Gains Mark

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Ray Floyd, saying he was "mentally and physically drained," heaved a weary sigh.

"I hope it doesn't take as long to make the second million dollars as it did the first. Fifteen long years," he said.

Julius Boros wasn't even thinking about it.

"It's been a good career," said the 57-year-old idol of golf's senior citizens. "I might just retire and go fishing."

Floyd and Boros had become the 14th and 15th golfers to reach the $1 million mark in career earnings on the pro golf tour, Floyd with a front-running victory Sunday in the Pleasant Valley Classic, Boros with a placing of 59th.

Floyd, who held off Jack Nicklaus' last-gasp challenge, collected $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000. Boros won $488. Floyd pushed his earnings to $1,011,605. Boros, winner of two U.S. Opens and the 1968 PGA championship, has had his goal in sight for two years. He now has $1,000,147 and may have completed a career that started in 1950.

Nicklaus, the game's all-time money winning leader with more than $3 million, was a disappointed loser. He just missed on a pitch for an eagle on the 18th hole that would have tied him with Floyd.

Nicklaus, who lost to Tom Watson by one stroke in the British Open last week, lost by the same margin to Floyd. In each case, his total score was far better than the previous tournament record.

Floyd scored his 10th career victory and second of the season with a closing 69 and a 271 total, 13-under-par and five strokes better than the old record on the 7,191-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Nicklaus had a closing 67, including birdies on three of the last four holes—he madeup five shots in that stretch—and a 272 total.

Miller Barber, never in the title hunt, did a happy little dance after a long birdie putt on the final hole gave him a six-under-par 65 and third place at 274. Rik Massengale, with a closing 69, was next at 275. South African Gary Player, 70, and Bruce Lietzke, 69, were tied at 276.

Watson, winner of the Masters and British Opens, had his three-tournament winning string snapped. He finished with a 70-278.

As a designated tournament, all leading players were required to compete in this event.

Floyd Gains Mark

SUTTON, Mass. (AP) — Ray Floyd, saying he was "mentally and physically drained," heaved a weary sigh.

"I hope it doesn't take as long to make the second million dollars as it did the first. Fifteen long years," he said.

Julius Boros wasn't even thinking about it.

"It's been a good career," said the 57-year-old idol of golf's senior citizens. "I might just retire and go fishing."

Floyd and Boros had become the 14th and 15th golfers to reach the $1 million mark in career earnings on the pro golf tour, Floyd with a front-running victory Sunday in the Pleasant Valley Classic, Boros with a placing of 59th.

Floyd, who held off Jack Nicklaus' last-gasp challenge, collected $50,000 from the total purse of $250,000. Boros won $488. Floyd pushed his earnings to $1,011,605. Boros, winner of two U.S. Opens and the 1968 PGA championship, has had his goal in sight for two years. He now has $1,000,147 and may have completed a career that started in 1950.

Nicklaus, the game's all-time money winning leader with more than $3 million, was a disappointed loser. He just missed on a pitch for an eagle on the 18th hole that would have tied him with Floyd.

Nicklaus, who lost to Tom Watson by one stroke in the British Open last week, lost by the same margin to Floyd. In each case, his total score was far better than the previous tournament record.

Floyd scored his 10th career victory and second of the season with a closing 69 and a 271 total, 13-under-par and five strokes better than the old record on the 7,191-yard Pleasant Valley Country Club course.

Nicklaus had a closing 67, including birdies on three of the last four holes—he made up five shots in that stretch—and a 272 total.

Miller Barber, never in the title hunt, did a happy little dance after a long birdie putt on the final hole gave him a six-under-par 65 and third place at 274. Rik Massengale, with a closing 69, was next at 275. South African Gary Player, 70, and Bruce Lietzke, 69, were tied at 276.

Watson, winner of the Masters and British Opens, had his three-tournament winning string snapped. He finished with a 70-278.

As a designated tournament, all leading players were required to compete in this event.

Browns Rookies To Get Game Time

KENT, Ohio (AP) — The Cleveland Browns face an unusually heavy pre-season schedule and that's good news for the rookies and young veterans who checked in at training camp Sunday.

Cleveland Coach Forrest Gregg told the newcomers he would be using them a lot.

"I have no choice," he said. "The pre-season schedule has us playing four games in 18 days."

"We certainly can't play the veterans all the time," Gregg said.

Then he added that the heavy schedule could be a blessing in disguise. "Coaches get into these games and forget about plans to look at people. We'll still be playing every pre-season game to win, but we will have to use all our personnel."

Workouts begin today for the rookies at the Browns 32nd training camp and the third one held at Kent State University. It is also Forrest Gregg's third year as head coach.

The veterans are scheduled to report Friday, be on hand for Family Day and the rookie scrimmage Saturday, and then begin their workouts Sunday.

On June 18, 1895, pitcher Anthony Mullane of the Baltimore Orioles gave up 16 runs in the first inning.

Jockeys Bobby Ussery and Eddie Belmonte are the only riders to bring in two winners of the Jersey Derby. Ussery handled Bally Ache in 1960 and Ambioipse in 1961. Belmonte rode Out of the Way in 1968 and Personality in 1970.

Bishop Seeks Settlement To Rhodesia Racial War

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — Bishop Abel Muzorewa, cheered by the biggest crowd ever seen for a black nationalist leader here, has demanded a quick settlement of Rhodesia's racial war and has said he will never enter into a "sell-out deal" with the white government.

At a massive rally Sunday that drew between 100,000 and 200,000 blacks, the bishop also denounced Joshua Nkomo, his main rival for leadership of the nationalist movement. He said Nkomo had "started a civil war" between black nationalists in Rhodesia.

Nkomo and Robert Mugabe, the joint chiefs of the Patriotic Front, a nationalist coalition, said at a news conference in Dar es Salaam, Tanzania, Sunday that they had made progress toward uniting their two guerrilla armies.

"Firm and concrete decisions" have been reached "on unified military programs calculated to bring down the Rhodesian racist regime much sooner," they said.

Nkomo, whose guerrillas are based in Zambia, and Mugabe, based in Mozambique, rely heavily on Communist arms and aid in the four-year-old war to topple the white-minority regime and establish black rule here.

Bishop Muzorewa, president of the African National Council, is generally regarded as a moderate and has virtually no guerrilla backing, although he is believed to have the greatest popular support within Rhodesia.

In war action, the Rhodesian military command reported Sunday that a remote police post 130 miles northwest of Salisbury had been pounded by rocket, mortar and machinegun fire from neighboring Zambia. Damage was minor and there were no casualties, the command said.

Bishop Muzorewa returned Sunday from an African tour in which he sought the support of black African states.

He failed in his principal objective when the Organization of African Unity earlier this month gave its exclusive endorsement to the Patriotic Front. There is speculation here, however, that the government of Prime Minister Ian Smith may try to freeze out the Patriotic Front and negotiate a political settlement with Muzorewa.

The United Methodist Church prelate rode in a motorcade from the airport to the rally in the black township of Highfield, outside Salisbury, where he spoke to the huge crowd amid a sea of black power salutes.

He declared he was not interested in "having talks about some kind of sell-out deal."

He promised to "personally guarantee" that the interests of the white minority would be safeguarded in an independent Zimbabwe, the nationalists' name for Rhodesia.

He said he would meet with Smith only if it was "to transfer power from the minority to the majority."

Rhodesia has about 6.2 million blacks and 272,000 whites.

American and British diplomats have been shuttling among southern African capitals recently in a new attempt to win support for a plan to end the war and establish black-majority rule.

Only Sunburns Mar Country Jamboree

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Glenn Reeves' longtime dream left thousands of country music lovers tired, happy and sunburned. He says he hopes they have the same opportunity next year, except for the sunburn.

"As far as I'm concerned, Jamboree in the Hills will be back again next year," said Reeves, executive producer of the two-day music festival.

"Of course, the final decision will be up to the top people at Columbia Pictures, which owns the station."

Capt. Bligh May Lose Resting Place

LONDON (AP) — Capt. William Bligh, who lost his ship in one of history's most notorious mutinies, may now lose his final resting place to a parking lot.

The commissioners who oversee the finances of the Church of England have decided that London's Church of St. Mary's, whose churchyard holds the grave of the hapless commander of the HMS Bounty, should be torn down and the site used for another purpose.

A campaign has been mounted to save the church. The preservationists claim the commissioners plan to convert the site into a parking lot for tourist buses, but a spokesman for the church commissioners said nothing has been decided yet.

St. Mary's, closed for the past five years, sits on the right bank of the Thames River just across the road from the embankment where thousands of summer tourists gaze at the Houses of Parliament across the river. Lambeth Palace, official London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, adjoins the church.

If the site is cleared, Bligh's bones probably would be reburied in consecrated ground elsewhere, the commissioners say.

"How they can think of pulling down such a historic church is amazing," said Rosemary Nicholson, a London housewife who launched the fight to save St. Mary's.

"I was horrified when I first saw the church. Half the roof had fallen in and the churchyard was overgrown and full of trash. Tramps and alcoholics were sleeping there and empty milk bottles littered the porch — all next door to the archbishop's palace," she said.

She persuaded the church commissioners to delay demolition and founded a trust seeking to convert the church into an international garden center. The plan would leave the tombs undisturbed.

A Church of England spokesman said that "in an age of declining church-going" it cannot possibly keep all 17,500 of its buildings.

"Our policy is to let redundant churches for a nominal rent, if we are satisfied the applicants can maintain them for a suitable purpose," he said.

The trust's preservation plans, requiring almost $500,000, will be sent to the church commissioners this week.

The festival was sponsored by radio station WWVA in nearby Wheeling, W.Va. Promoters had billed it as country music's answer to Woodstock.

Reeves said he was happy with the size and behavior of the crowd, which numbered about 25,000 Saturday and fell to 10,000 on Sunday. Unlike Woodstock, there was almost no drug use and absolutely no nudity.

There was plenty of beer, but the main problem was the sun, which caused nearly 700 persons to be treated for heat exhaustion at the medical tent and left thousands with severe sunburns. Thirty persons were hospitalized.

"I thought the crowd was wonderful," said Reeves, a goateed 46-year-old former country singer who produces WWVA's Saturday Night Jamborees. "Those people are the salt of the earth. This event has been a dream of mine since the rock festivals of the 1960s."

Reeves said he spent $250,000 lining up performers such as Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Tammy Wynette, Tom T. Hall, Freddie Fender, Donna Fargo and others.

"I figure we've spent a half million, counting everything," he said. "I'm certain we didn't lose any money but I won't know exactly how we came out until later in the week."

The festival fans were of all ages. They came primarily from the Northeast and Canada, the area served by WWVA, which has a country music format.

"We'll probably try to attract a wider crowd next year," said Reeves. "I'd like to see this event draw 100,000 people eventually—when we're ready to handle that many people."

The festival was well organized. There was plenty of food and beer and no traffic jams. There was little anyone could do about the heat, however. Many folks rubbed themselves with ice and others made regular trips to several nearby fire trucks where they were sprayed with hoses.

A small army of police, including 50 mounted deputies, patrolled the 150-acre festival grounds. They reported one arrest—for a drunk and disorderly charge—and a stabbing they said was inflicted with a fork.

Many of the performers said they hoped the festival would become an annual event.

"I loved it," said Cash, who stole the show Saturday night, staying on the stage for more than two hours.

Miss Wynette and Hall both said they hope to be back next year. "Country music needs something like this," Hall added.

Thunderstorms Rip Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A heavy thunderstorm that moved through the Morehead area early Sunday evening, triggering high winds that tore part of the roof from the Holiday Inn Motel at Interstate 64 and Kentucky 32, Morehead police reported.

The motel was 90 per cent occupied, manager Waverly Jones said, but police reported no one was injured when the storm struck about 6:30 p.m.

"About 70 to 75 per cent of the roof was affected," motel auditor Mark Jones said. "There was a lot of rain, then I saw a car out in the parking lot come off the ground a few inches. Quite a few cars were damaged by falling debris," he added.

Motel officials said as many as 150 guests were finding shelter at other motels and at Morehead State University. None of the guests reported losing personal belongings to the high winds, the motel auditor said.

The rooms where the roof was blown off were covered with a plastic shield by Morehead firemen and rescue personnel, officials said.

A barn behind the motel was flattened and the Pine Crest Children's Home across Interstate 64 from the motel had power lines and a utility shed blown down, police said.

State police at the Morehead post reported losing communications for several minutes after the storm.

Utility lines, trees and limbs were reported down throughout the area.

First reports said a tornado had struck the motel, but National Weather Service (NWS) officials at Louisville said the report had not been confirmed.

Otherwise, it was the same old story from the NWS: "No relief is in sight from the heat wave." For Kentuckians that means more sultry nights and Dog Day afternoons at least through Friday.

Dog Days, according to Kentucky folklore, are those days in mid summer—usually early July to early August—when it is hot and muggy, causing dogs to salivate profusely. In years past, people thought the dogs were going mad and in the summer the advice was usually heard: "Beware of Dog Days."

Indians End 200-Year War

IGNACIO, Colo. (AP) — Two hundred years after their battles began, and 100 years after they first tried to end them, two warring Indian tribes are gathering to make peace.

The ceremony will be appropriately lengthy — four days. The Indians will smoke peace pipes, exchange handshakes and dance the ritual dances that go unperformed for generations.

The Southern Utes and Comanches, cousins by language and custom, had been at war for more than a century in the late 1870s when they gathered to make peace at a Comanche meeting ground on what is now the West Texas panhandle.

Led by Southern Ute Chief Buckskin Charlie and Comanche Chief Quannah Parker, the two groups agreed they were tired of fighting. The decimation of the buffalo herds had left little to fight over.

But the meeting was disrupted when someone — no one knows who — fired a shot. The tribes resumed their fighting.

They have not actually fought for decades, but tribal leaders made certain that their descendants knew they were technically at war.

Perry Heath, an Oklahoma Comanche who works on the Southern Ute reservation here for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, learned of the state of war from a Ute tribal councilman who heard it from Antonio Buck, the son of Buckskin Charlie.

Heath confirmed the story with Comanche tribal leaders in Oklahoma, and they said they were willing to discuss a peace treaty. The two tribes met last year in Oklahoma and agreed to conclude the process this year.

"We want to do this for the sake of our young people," said Heath.

As a result, this reservation headquarters town, population 600, will hold as many as 5,000 people this week — Utes, Comanches, and Indians from other tribes around the country who have been invited to take part.

For four days they will powwow and dance in the parched mesa country of southwestern Colorado.

The Comanches' Black Knife Peace Dance will be performed for only the third time since 1918.

Representatives of the two tribes will meet next weekend in the same 24-foot teepee they used last year in Oklahoma.

Nothing has to be signed. Eventually, rawhide scrolls will be exchanged. But by Indian custom, the peace pipes and handshakes will end the two-century war.

Nominate Five For U.S. Attorney

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Federal Nominating Commission of Ohio has selected five names from 29 applications for the post of U.S. attorney for northern Ohio and will submit them to U.S. Sens. John Glenn and Howard Metzenbaum.

The 12-member commission was named by Glenn, Metzenbaum and the Ohio Bar Association to screen candidates for U.S. attorney and federal judgeships.

The northern Ohio post was left vacant when Frederick Coleman, a Republican and only black U.S. attorney in the nation, was appointed by Gov. James A. Rhodes to the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court bench.

During its meeting Saturday, the commission also set an Aug. 8 application deadline for those interested in applying for the job as U.S. attorney for southern Ohio.

U.S. Atty. William Milligan has announced he will resign Sept. 6 after 7½ years at the post.

Police Air Cost, Morals Problems Of Desegregation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Increased administrative costs and morale problems in the ranks plagued police departments faced with implementing court-ordered school desegregation programs, according to police officials from Boston, Louisville and Dayton.

The officials discussed their problems Saturday during a seminar on desegregation sponsored by The Associated Press Society of Ohio and Ohio Associated Press Broadcasters.

Stephen Dunleavy, administrative assistant for the Boston Police Department, said $17 million has been spent by police during the last three years during implementation of court-ordered busing.

Most of that money was spent on overtime—time which placed an increased strain on many individual marriages, Dunleavy reported.

Jefferson County, Ky., police have found themselves in similar circumstances since a desegregation plan went into effect in 1975, according to Martin G. Harnek, a police commander.

"Even our brothers and sisters wouldn't speak to us," Harnek recalled.

"We thought we had good public relations and now we are hated by our neighbors and friends."

The violence that accompanied the start of busing took Jefferson County police by surprise, Harnek said.

"We thought things were going to be calm," Harnek said. "Everything went haywire. They went bananas."

The Dayton police force tried to anticipate the problem by gathering all the information it could before a court-ordered plan went into effect last fall.

Tyree Broomfield, assistant chief of the Dayton police department, said his men tapped all available sources of information before school began last fall.

"It is vitally important to predict what most people will do most of the time," Broomfield said.

School officials from the three cities participated in another seminar in which they recounted problems in dealing with desegregation orders.

Sara Coleridge (1802-1852), the only daughter of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, was a writer of children's poetry.

Only Sunburns Mar Country Jamboree

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, Ohio (AP) — Glenn Reeves' longtime dream left thousands of country music lovers tired, happy and sunburned. He says he hopes they have the same opportunity next year, except for the sunburn.

"As far as I'm concerned, Jamboree in the Hills will be back again next year," said Reeves, executive producer of the two-day music festival.

"Of course, the final decision will be up to the top people at Columbia Pictures, which owns the station."

The festival was sponsored by radio station WWVA in nearby Wheeling, W.Va. Promoters had billed it as country music's answer to Woodstock.

Reeves said he was happy with the size and behavior of the crowd, which numbered about 25,000 Saturday and fell to 10,000 on Sunday. Unlike Woodstock, there was almost no drug use and absolutely no nudity.

There was plenty of beer, but the main problem was the sun, which caused nearly 700 persons to be treated for heat exhaustion at the medical tent and left thousands with severe sunburns. Thirty persons were hospitalized.

"I thought the crowd was wonderful," said Reeves, a goateed 46-year-old former country singer who produces WWVA's Saturday Night Jamborees. "Those people are the salt of the earth. This event has been a dream of mine since the rock festivals of the 1960s."

Capt. Bligh May Lose Resting Place

LONDON (AP) — Capt. William Bligh, who lost his ship in one of history's most notorious mutinies, may now lose his final resting place to a parking lot.

The commissioners who oversee the finances of the Church of England have decided that London's Church of St. Mary's, whose churchyard holds the grave of the hapless commander of the HMS Bounty, should be torn down and the site used for another purpose.

A campaign has been mounted to save the church. The preservationists claim the commissioners plan to convert the site into a parking lot for tourist buses, but a spokesman for the church commissioners said nothing has been decided yet.

St. Mary's, closed for the past five years, sits on the right bank of the Thames River just across the road from the embankment where thousands of summer tourists gaze at the Houses of Parliament across the river. Lambeth Palace, official London residence of the Archbishop of Canterbury, adjoins the church.

If the site is cleared, Bligh's bones probably would be reburied in consecrated ground elsewhere, the commissioners say.

"How they can think of pulling down such a historic church is amazing," said Rosemary Nicholson, a London housewife who launched the fight to save St. Mary's.

"I was horrified when I first saw the church. Half the roof had fallen in and the churchyard was overgrown and full of trash. Tramps and alcoholics were sleeping there and empty milk bottles littered the porch — all next door to the archbishop's palace," she said.

She persuaded the church commissioners to delay demolition and founded a trust seeking to convert the church into an international garden center. The plan would leave the tombs undisturbed.

A Church of England spokesman said that "in an age of declining church-going" it cannot possibly keep all 17,500 of its buildings.

"Our policy is to let redundant churches for a nominal rent, if we are satisfied the applicants can maintain them for a suitable purpose," he said.

The trust's preservation plans, requiring almost $500,000, will be sent to the church commissioners this week.

Reeves said he spent $250,000 lining up performers such as Johnny Cash, Merle Haggard, Tammy Wynette, Tom T. Hall, Freddie Fender, Donna Fargo and others.

"I figure we've spent a half million, counting everything," he said. "I'm certain we didn't lose any money but I won't know exactly how we came out until later in the week."

The festival fans were of all ages. They came primarily from the Northeast and Canada, the area served by WWVA, which has a country music format.

"We'll probably try to attract a wider crowd next year," said Reeves. "I'd like to see this event draw 100,000 people eventually—when we're ready to handle that many people."

The festival was well organized. There was plenty of food and beer and no traffic jams. There was little anyone could do about the heat, however. Many folks rubbed themselves with ice and others made regular trips to several nearby fire trucks where they were sprayed with hoses.

A small army of police, including 50 mounted deputies, patrolled the 150-acre festival grounds. They reported one arrest—for a drunk and disorderly charge—and a stabbing they said was inflicted with a fork.

Many of the performers said they hoped the festival would become an annual event.

"I loved it," said Cash, who stole the show Saturday night, staying on the stage for more than two hours.

Miss Wynette and Hall both said they hope to be back next year. "Country music needs something like this," Hall added.

Indians End 200-Year War

IGNACIO, Colo. (AP) — Two hundred years after their battles began, and 100 years after they first tried to end them, two warring Indian tribes are gathering to make peace.

The ceremony will be appropriately lengthy — four days. The Indians will smoke peace pipes, exchange handshakes and dance the ritual dances that go unperformed for generations.

The Southern Utes and Comanches, cousins by language and custom, had been at war for more than a century in the late 1870s when they gathered to make peace at a Comanche meeting ground on what is now the West Texas panhandle.

Led by Southern Ute Chief Buckskin Charlie and Comanche Chief Quannah Parker, the two groups agreed they were tired of fighting. The decimation of the buffalo herds had left little to fight over.

But the meeting was disrupted when someone — no one knows who — fired a shot. The tribes resumed their fighting.

They have not actually fought for decades, but tribal leaders made certain that their descendants knew they were technically at war.

Perry Heath, an Oklahoma Comanche who works on the Southern Ute reservation here for the Bureau of Indian Affairs, learned of the state of war from a Ute tribal councilman who heard it from Antonio Buck, the son of Buckskin Charlie.

Heath confirmed the story with Comanche tribal leaders in Oklahoma, and they said they were willing to discuss a peace treaty. The two tribes met last year in Oklahoma and agreed to conclude the process this year.

"We want to do this for the sake of our young people," said Heath.

As a result, this reservation headquarters town, population 600, will hold as many as 5,000 people this week — Utes, Comanches, and Indians from other tribes around the country who have been invited to take part.

For four days they will powwow and dance in the parched mesa country of southwestern Colorado. The Comanches' Black Knife Peace Dance will be performed for only the third time since 1918.

Representatives of the two tribes will meet next weekend in the same 24-foot tepee they used last year in Oklahoma.

Nothing has to be signed. Eventually, rawhide scrolls will be exchanged. But by Indian custom, the peace pipes and handshakes will end the two-century war.

Thunderstorms Rip Kentucky

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A heavy thunderstorm that moved through the Morehead area early Sunday evening, triggering high winds that tore part of the roof from the Holiday Inn Motel at Interstate 64 and Kentucky 32, Morehead police reported.

The motel was 90 per cent occupied, manager Waverly Jones said, but police reported no one was injured when the storm struck about 6:30 p.m.

"About 70 to 75 per cent of the roof was affected," motel auditor Mark Jones said. "There was a lot of rain, then I saw a car out in the parking lot come off the ground a few inches. Quite a few cars were damaged by falling debris," he added.

Motel officials said as many as 150 guests were finding shelter at other motels and at Morehead State University. None of the guests reported losing personal belongings to the high winds, the motel auditor said.

The rooms where the roof was blown off were covered with a plastic shield by Morehead firemen and rescue personnel, officials said.

A barn behind the motel was flattened and the Pine Crest Children's Home across Interstate 64 from the motel had power lines and a utility shed blown down, police said.

State police at the Morehead post reported losing communications for several minutes after the storm. Utility lines, trees and limbs were reported down throughout the area.

First reports said a tornado had struck the motel, but National Weather Service (NWS) officials at Louisville said the report had not been confirmed.

Otherwise, it was the same old story from the NWS: "No relief is in sight from the heat wave." For Kentuckians that means more sultry nights and Dog Day afternoons at least through Friday.

Dog Days, according to Kentucky folklore, are those days in mid summer—usually early July to early August—when it is hot and muggy, causing dogs to salivate profusely. In years past, people thought the dogs were going mad and in the summer the advice was usually heard: "Beware of Dog Days."

Police Air Cost, Morals Problems Of Desegregation

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Increased administrative costs and morale problems in the ranks plagued police departments faced with implementing court-ordered school desegregation programs, according to police officials from Boston, Louisville and Dayton.

The officials discussed their problems Saturday during a seminar on desegregation sponsored by The Associated Press Society of Ohio and Ohio Associated Press Broadcasters.

Stephen Dunleavy, administrative assistant for the Boston Police Department, said $17 million has been spent by police during the last three years during implementation of court-ordered busing.

Most of that money was spent on overtime—time which placed an increased strain on many individual marriages, Dunleavy reported.

Jefferson County, Ky., police have found themselves in similar circumstances since a desegregation plan went into effect in 1975, according to Martin G. Harnek, a police commander.

"Even our brothers and sisters wouldn't speak to us," Harnek recalled.

"We thought we had good public relations and now we are hated by our neighbors and friends."

The violence that accompanied the start of busing took Jefferson County police by surprise, Harnek said.

"We thought things were going to be calm," Harnek said. "Everything went haywire. They went bananas."

The Dayton police force tried to anticipate the problem by gathering all the information it could before a court-ordered plan went into effect last fall.

Tyree Broomfield, assistant chief of the Dayton police department, said his men tapped all available sources of information before school began last fall.

"It is vitally important to predict what most people will do most of the time," Broomfield said.

School officials from the three cities participated in another seminar in which they recounted problems in dealing with desegregation orders.

Sara Coleridge (1802-1852), the only daughter of Samuel Taylor Coleridge, was a writer of children's poetry.

23 Die On Ohio Highways

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Five persons were killed in a two-car crash Sunday in Stark County, raising the state's weekend traffic death toll to 23.

The highway patrol said the accident occurred on Ohio 153 near Louisville, killing three teen-agers and a young couple.

The patrol keeps its weekend traffic fatality count from 6 p.m. Friday until midnight Sunday.

The dead:

SUNDAY

LOUISVILLE — Jody Ring, 17, of Louisville, Ohio; Thomas Bishop, 14, Louisville; Kevin Burns, 14, Minerva; William McKenzie, 35, Canton, and Linda McKenzie, 30, Canton, killed in a two-car crash on Ohio 153 in Stark County.

LOGAN — Gordon Wable, 30, of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and an unidentified passenger in a one-car smashup along Ohio 33 in Hocking County.

SANDUSKY — Mike McKinnon, 19, of Norwalk, a passenger in a car which crashed on an Erie County road.

CHARDON — Nancy A. Turner, 36, of Mansfield, a passenger in one of two-cars which collided on U.S. 442 at the junction of Mumford Road in Geauga County.

Broadcaster Pays For Rape Joke

NEW YORK (AP) — Veteran TV weatherman Tex Antoine made a tasteless remark about rape during a broadcast eight months ago and even his on-the-air apology couldn't stop the resulting uproar. Today he's looking for a job and confessing he feels hurt and "a failure."

"I feel I have something left to give, I wish to give," says the 54-year-old broadcaster. "My wheels are spinning — that's what's driving me nuts. I want to work. I love to work."

His troubles began on Nov. 24 during the 6 p.m. news broadcast of the American Broadcasting Co.'s flagship station, WABC. After an item was read about the alleged rape of an 8-year-old girl, the camera shifted to Antoine for his weather report.

"With rape so predominant in the news lately," Antoine remarked, "Confucius say, 'If rape is inevitable, relax and enjoy it.'"

The switchboard handled hundreds of angry phone calls, including some from WABC executives.

The camera returned to Antoine during the same broadcast.

"If I offended you with the Confucius saying," he said, "I apologize."

During the 11 p.m. news, an anchorman read a statement from the station's management, which said that Antoine had been suspended indefinitely for "an inexcusable lapse of judgment" in making a comment that was "insensitive and offensive."

Women picketed WABC and the incident was hashed out in columns of letters to editors.

After Antoine returned from a vacation in the Virgin Islands, the station announced it was reinstating him — but confining his duties to off-air work.

After 25 years as a highly paid weatherman, Antoine's contract was not renewed when it expired in March. There was no public explanation.

COLUMBUS — Felipe P. Martinez, 23, Westerville, in a two-motorcycle accident on Ohio 161.

DEFIANCE — Daniel Hill, 26, Deshler, when his car was struck by a train at a crossing on Ohio 18 near Deshler.

STREETSBORO — Melvin R. Scott, 45, and Nancy L. Scott, 44, both of Garrettsville, in a three-car accident in Streetsboro.

Groups Protest Nuclear Plants

ELMA, Wash. (AP) — A "summer of protest" promised by Northwest anti-nuclear power groups began when about 700 demonstrators took to the quiet streets here to protest two proposed power plants.

"Better active now than radioactive later," demonstrators chanted.

The nuclear-powered generating plants would be built on the nearby Satsop River by the Washington Public Power Supply System. Site-clearing has begun.

"I think it's a great turnout for our first gathering of opposition," said Mary Harris, 23, of Olympia, a member of the Crabshell Alliance steering committee, which organized the Saturday protest.

The alliance of groups has promised a summer filled with demonstrations at nuclear plants and military bases in Washington and Oregon.

Jim Duree, an attorney in Westport, Wash., drew the greatest cheers at a rally with his statement that the two nuclear plants will serve as "monuments to corporate greed, technological arrogance approaching insanity, and the ineptitude, cynicism and indifference of the government."

Following the demonstration, Richard Romanelli of the power company said the utility believes in the right of peaceful protest, but he noted that voters had defeated an initiative last fall which would have banned nuclear power plants.

Sludge Proves Garden Boom

FALMOUTH, Maine (AP) — The chief by-product of Falmouth's sewage treatment plant has become so popular that the town can't keep up with the demand.

For the past three months, this Portland suburb has been offering residents free sludge as fertilizer for lawns, gardens and hayfields.

Delivered in a tank truck, the waste material is applied with a hose by treatment plant workers.

More than 100 townspeople are on the waiting list, and Richard Goodenow, the plant supervisor, said he doubts whether he will be able to fill all the orders before the end of summer.

The program, started on a trial basis, uses sludge mixed with hydrated lime to achieve the proper acidity level.

"It's completely safe," said Goodenow. "If it weren't, we wouldn't be putting it onto lawns where children are likely to be playing."

The town council will decide later this year whether to end the giveaway and begin charging for the service.

GEORGETOWN — Danny R. Phelps, 29, Hamersville, in a one-car crash on Ohio 125 near Hamersville.

SATURDAY

LAKEWOOD — Samuel Cruz, 19, of Cleveland, and Louis Rivera, 18, of Cleveland, killed in a one-car crash Saturday night on U.S. 6 in Lakewood.

CINCINNATI — Maurice McGirr, 24, no address reported, a passenger in a vehicle which crashed on Wooster Pike, east of Newtown Road, in Hamilton County.

MARION — Steven C. Clapham, 17, Marion, killed in a car-train accident at a Marion County road crossing.

MIDDLEBURGH HEIGHTS — Frank Valente, 28, of Cleveland, the driver of one of two cars which collided on U.S. 42 in Middleburgh Heights.

ELYRIA — Bennie Bacon, 32, of Lorain, in a three-car collision at the intersection of Ohio 57 and Ohio 113 in Lorain County.

FRIDAY NIGHT

ST. CLAIRSVILLE — Kenneth Ball, 14, of St. Clairsville, killed Friday night when a car hit his bicycle on a Belmont County road.

CINCINNATI — Ronald Kemper, 5, of Cincinnati died when a car hit him as he walked along a city street.

ZANESVILLE — Stella Barton, 59, of Lisbon, died in a single-car crash on I-70 in Muskingum County.

Showers and thundershowers were expected to provide the only relief from the continuing heat Ohio will see for several days.

A ridge of high pressure over the southeastern states is feeding warm, humid air over the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes. No change in this pattern is likely for the next few days. Weak disturbances moving east across the Great Lakes will set off some thundershowers, mainly during the afternoons and evenings. Temperatures were to climb into the low to mid 90s over most of the state today and again Tuesday.

A few thundershowers dampened northeastern and east central Ohio Sunday afternoon, but faded out during the evening hours. Skies cleared over most of Ohio during the night. It was hazy this morning with temperatures generally in the upper 60s to the low 70s.

Armless Youth Is TV Star

WEST LIBERTY, Ohio (AP) — Seven-year-old Andy Detwiler just isn't your average run-of-the-mill television star.

The subject of a soon-to-be-released documentary has the classic good looks, all right, and the customary "healthy glow" from long hours in the sun and the mandatory charisma that comes through on film.

But it is what Andy doesn't have—his arms—and the pluck he has displayed in conquering his handicap that makes him special—and a star.

Both of Andy's arms were amputated five years ago after an accident on his parents' farm, two miles south of West Liberty on Upper Valley Pike.

Andy's parents, Tom and Pat Detwiler, refused to coddle him in the years that followed. Instead they, and the tight-knit community, offered encouragement.

Today Andy can do most of the things others his age can. He prints, swims on his back, paints, uses scissors to make art projects and—his favorite pastime—rides a Big Wheel.

Andy first came under the camera's eye last summer in a medical film written by Mary Evans, associate producer at WOSU-TV, Columbus. Miss Evans was taken by Andy's "charisma" and decided he would make a good subject for an in-depth documentary.

So Andy's story, his battle with a handicap that would have defeated many, has been recorded by the Ohio State University station for viewing this fall.

"Mary was so enthusiastic," Mrs. Detwiler said. But what sold them on the idea was the hope the film "could do good for some other families" by dispelling some myths people have about handicapped children.

So a film crew followed Andy around for two weeks last June, shooting footage of him in school, helping the

Surprise Ad Gets Response

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Paul Goodman had his 33rd birthday Friday and figured that his friend, Fred Davis, had a surprise present for him. But he wasn't looking for a newspaper advertisement seeking a good wife.

The ad, featuring Goodman's picture and telephone number, was titled, "I want you for my wife." The ad, which cost almost $200, promised "A life of leisure and warm affection awaits the person who can fulfill my requirements for wifehood."

She was to be between 26 and 33 years of age, with a Swedish background, long blonde hair, a baby face, single and "clean as the fallen snow."

Goodman had his third telephone call before 7 a.m.

Davis, who had told his friend he would get a present, said Friday he has been planning the ad since January.

Davis, who also is single, admitted he had ulterior motives for placing the advertisement.

"I plan to try to get the dates he doesn't want," he said

SOUTHWEST SOUTHEAST
Partly cloudy, warm and humid with a chance of thundershowers mainly afternoon and evening through Tuesday. Highs in the mid 90s. Chance of rain 30 per cent Tuesday.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Showers and thundershowers were expected to provide the only relief from the continuing heat Ohio will see for several days.

A ridge of high pressure over the southeastern states is feeding warm, humid air over the Ohio Valley and Great Lakes. No change in this pattern is likely for the next few days. Weak disturbances moving east across the Great Lakes will set off some thundershowers, mainly during the afternoons and evenings. Temperatures were to climb into the low to mid 90s over most of the state today and again Tuesday.

A few thundershowers dampened northeastern and east central Ohio Sunday afternoon, but faded out during the evening hours. Skies cleared over most of Ohio during the night. It was hazy this morning with temperatures generally in the upper 60s to the low 70s.

Armless Youth Is TV Star

WEST LIBERTY, Ohio (AP) — Seven-year-old Andy Detwiler just isn't your average run-of-the-mill television star.

The subject of a soon-to-be-released documentary has the classic good looks, all right, and the customary "healthy glow" from long hours in the sun and the mandatory charisma that comes through on film.

But it is what Andy doesn't have—his arms—and the pluck he has displayed in conquering his handicap that makes him special—and a star.

Both of Andy's arms were amputated five years ago after an accident on his parents' farm, two miles south of West Liberty on Upper Valley Pike.

Andy's parents, Tom and Pat Detwiler, refused to coddle him in the years that followed. Instead they, and the tight-knit community, offered encouragement.

Today Andy can do most of the things others his age can. He prints, swims on his back, paints, uses scissors to make art projects and—his favorite pastime—rides a Big Wheel.

Andy first came under the camera's eye last summer in a medical film written by Mary Evans, associate producer at WOSU-TV, Columbus. Miss Evans was taken by Andy's "charisma" and decided he would make a good subject for an in-depth documentary.

So Andy's story, his battle with a handicap that would have defeated many, has been recorded by the Ohio State University station for viewing this fall.

"Mary was so enthusiastic," Mrs. Detwiler said. But what sold them on the idea was the hope the film "could do good for some other families" by dispelling some myths people have about handicapped children.

So a film crew followed Andy around for two weeks last June, shooting footage of him in school, helping the

Surprise Ad Gets Response

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Paul Goodman had his 33rd birthday Friday and figured that his friend, Fred Davis, had a surprise present for him. But he wasn't looking for a newspaper advertisement seeking a good wife.

The ad, featuring Goodman's picture and telephone number, was titled, "I want you for my wife." The ad, which cost almost $200, promised "A life of leisure and warm affection awaits the person who can fulfill my requirements for wifehood."

She was to be between 26 and 33 years of age, with a Swedish background, long blonde hair, a baby face, single and "clean as the fallen snow."

Goodman had his third telephone call before 7 a.m.

Davis, who had told his friend he was planning the ad since January.

Davis, who also is single, admitted he had ulterior motives for placing the advertisement.

"I plan to try to get the dates he doesn't want," he said

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will appreciate all - even the tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR TUESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): You may be able to put over a good deal, conclude a profitable agreement. At least, steps toward such ends can be initiated. But don't press; maneuver adroitly.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Caution should be day's keynote. Don't create unnecessary problems through impulsiveness, and take no reckless chances.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Apathy and indifference now prevalent in certain quarters. Don't let them dampen your enthusiasm, but do counter with poise and equanimity.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): Get all promises in writing. Others will respect you if you are firm but fair. A slight disappointment could eventually rebound to your favor, so... patience!

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Fine influences! You should be able to hurdle almost any obstacle now. But Do avoid emotionalism; also impulsiveness and extremes.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Some complex situations indicated, but none that you can't solve in your usual efficient manner. Don't be distracted by the frivolities of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Past efforts should be bearing fruit now. Study conditions and trends which may seem odd but may hold new advantages.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can accomplish more by teamwork now than by "going it alone." Some fine opportunities indicated through cooperation with associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A period of ACTION! Put all you have into day's endeavors: your best thoughts, plans, efforts. Look for the unexpected, and CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): An excellent day for considering new business arrangements - especially if they involve real estate or property improvements.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Clever management must be your keyword in day's battle for gains. Also, concentration on what you are doing. Sidestep office intrigue.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Don't be swayed by outside distractions, the bizarre doings of others. You could be fooled if not alert.

YOU BORN TODAY are a natural moneymaker and a highly practical executive. You have a keen mind, a sharp wit and more strongly marked qualities of leadership than most Cancerians. Generally speaking, you are an ebullient, stimulating individual, highly energetic and willing to work hard to achieve your ambitions. While, as noted above, you could be a great success in the business world, you might find a more satisfying outlet for your talents in one of the professions - especially the law, literature or medicine. Birthdate of: Samuel Colt, Amer. inventor of firearms.

More Than An Ink Spot
NEW YORK (AP) — More than a billion pounds of ink — roughly the same mass as the combined weight of the total population of New York City's seven million people — are used every year in the United States and Canada, according to the Inmott Corp., a supplier of printing inks.

Mechanical clocks were introduced in Europe in the 13th century. They were used in churches to mark the time of services.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Past efforts should be bearing fruit now. Study conditions and trends which may seem odd but may hold new advantages.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): You can accomplish more by teamwork now than by "going it alone." Some fine opportunities indicated through cooperation with associates.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A period of ACTION! Put all you have into day's endeavors: your best thoughts, plans, efforts. Look for the unexpected, and

THOSE ARE TYPES OF BACTERIA WE ALL HAVE IN OUR BODIES

Flash Gordon

WHAT'S THAT, JONA, A FLOATING FORTRESS?!

A SERVICE DEPOT FOR OUR SHIPS, FLASH!

ALSO A STATION FOR KEEPING AN EYE ON YOUR WORLD!

WE HAVE MANY... AROUND THE GLOBE! HIDDEN IN THEIR MAN-MADE CLOUD SCREENS!

WE'LL LAND LATER! IT WILL BE OF GREAT INTEREST TO YOU!

I WANT TO THANK YOU ALL FOR THE SURPRISE BIRTHDAY PARTY

SILLO WILL SEE THAT THE NEWSPAPER GETS THE STORY

Blondie

WHAT ARE YOU DOING, ELMO?

MY FATHER MAKES ME PRACTICE MY VIOLIN OUTSIDE

I THOUGHT YOUR FATHER WAS A MUSIC LOVER

THAT'S WHY HE MAKES ME PRACTICE OUTSIDE!

Nubbin

TARNATION! I WANTED TO BAKE AN ANGEL FOOD CAKE, AN' WE'RE OUT OF FLOUR, OUT OF SUGAR, AN' OUT OF EGGS.

I'LL HAFTA GO A-BORROWIN'!

HOWDY, I'D LIKE TO BORROW AN ANGEL FOOD CAKE.

Donald Duck

I HOPE YOU LIKE THE OATMEAL... LAST TIME YOU SAID IT WAS HORRID!

WELL?

I MUST SAY, YOUR OATMEAL IS IMPROVING...

...AT LEAST, NOW THE LUMPS ARE ALL THE SAME SIZE!

Beetle Bailey

DON'T YOU LOVE THINGS WHEN THEY'RE NEW, BEETLE?

LOOK AT THOSE CLEAN, GOLDEN BRISTLES STANDING IN STIFF PERFECT ROWS

BUT NOT FOR LONG

YOU

helped plan our Produce Departments!

You, our shoppers, helped plan the new look of Kroger produce departments. All of us at Kroger want you to be pleased with the fresh fruits and vegetables you buy in our stores. So we listened when you told us what a good produce department should be like:

Give us a choice, you said... instead of a prepackaged amount, shoppers want to buy the exact quantity they need (even if it's only one apple!). At Kroger, that's the way you'll find it. We have during the past few years converted our stores to loose or "bulk" produce... just the way you asked for.

Quality, you said, is important to get your money's worth. At Kroger, you can be assured that the fresh fruits and vegetables you buy are U.S.D.A. graded for quality... and we buy only the top grade available.

Give us more variety, you told us. If there's any fresh fruit or vegetable item we don't have, just ask your Kroger produce people. If it's available, we'll get it for you.

We also added something extra. Friendly people to weigh your purchase or to give advice when needed such as which kind of apple is best for cooking, or how you eat an artichoke! We want to help you shop more wisely.

When you shop for fresh fruits and vegetables, remember that they're usually highest in quality when the price is lowest. And do protect the quality of your summer-time produce prizes by taking them home quickly and refrigerating promptly.

We hear you and we're trying to help!
